HUNT BOSTON BOY LOST ON MOUNTAIN

PHOTOGRAPH RUSSELL FINGER PRINT

MOTHER OF LOST BOY HEARS CALL

Mrs. Lawrence J. Keenan of No. 54 Bartlett street, Charlestown, whose son, John M. Keenan, a Boston & Maine surveyor, has been lost above the cloud line on bleak Mt. Washington in the White Mountains for two days, said today that she either dreamed or felt that she heard some one calling her last night.

Such an impression did this "call" make on the mother's mind that she even arose from bed and went to the window to see if any one was speaking from outside the house.

Mrs. Keenan was unaccountably depressed today during the early morning hours after rising. This was before she knew anything about her son being lost on the mountain and about searching parties having looked in vain for him since 11 a. m. Wednesday.

The mother collapsed today when she heard the news of her son's predicament. But, after being assured that everything possible was being done in the way of search, she was a little comforted and said that young Keenan is a big, strapping lad and will get out of trouble if anyone can.

Mrs. Keenan's account of the mysterious "call" which she dreamed or thought she heard last night was thus:

The Mysterious "Call."

"I did not want Johnnie to go to the White Mountains on this work, but he was ambitious and said he wanted to get along in the world, and that this was a fine opportunity. So I let him go.

"This is the first time he has been away from home, and I have been very much worried ever since he went.

"I sort of felt this morning that something was the matter. I could not tell what it was or describe my feelings.

"Last night, or it might have been early this morning, I either dreamed or felt I heard some one call me. I was so sure of it that I got up and went to the window and looked out. Of course, I saw no one and, when I got back to bed I asked Mr. Keenan if he had called me. He said no, and when I explained to him, he laughed and told me to go to sleep.

"I am almost sure something serious

SCHOOLGIRL IS KILLED BY AUTO

WORCESTER, Sept. 20.—On her way to school today, in sight of several girl companions, seven-year-old Nellie Tripp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tripp, of No. 2 Chadwick square, this city, was run over and fatally injured by an automobile driven by W. E. Taft, an engineer employed by the Associated Motors Company, of Springfield. The accident happened near the schoolhouse at West Boylston street and Mattoon road.

The unconscious girl was hurried to the City Hospital, where she died on the operating table. Taft was summoned to appear in the police court next Monday.

PRICES 'WAY DOWN IN PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.— Housewives are enjoying the lowest prices known in the local produce markets for years. Not only is produce abundant, but it is cheaper and of higher quality than in previous seasons. It is estimated by market experts that the local potato crop is larger this season than it has been in ten years; the apple crop the best since 1896, and onions are four times as plentiful as ever before. Tomatoes are selling from 10 to 12 cents per basket. Last year they sold from 40 to 50 cents. Similar conditions are shown in the string bean, cauliflower, grape and corn markets.

HAMBURG LINE SURE FOR HUB

Two passenger steamers a month, sailing direct from Hamburg to Boston and from Boston to Hamburg, is planned by the Hamburg-American line, according to General Hugh Bancroft, chairman of the port of Boston directors, today. Whether or not the line will leave New York entirely for Boston is uncertain, but it was threatened yesterday in New York by the line.

These steamers would be of about the same size as the biggest Cunarders and White Star boats now sailing from here. They would carry freight as well as passengers, thus making a substantial addition to the line's freight accommodations here.

"The Hamburg-American line is coming here. I am confident of that," said General Bancroft today. "They will come not later than 1914. Every indication now is that they will come earlier, and I expect to see a direct passenger service between Boston and Hamburg within a year.

"The coming of the Hamburg-American line would be an incalculable boom for Boston as a port. The line is the biggest steamship company in the world. It would bring us the accommodations we need, and we could give it the traffic it would demand.

Dock Facilities Here.

"The Hamburg-American freight service here has been in force for about five years, I believe. It started with one sailing a month. Now it has three. That is an index to the growth of the company's business, and it is that growth, combined with our dock and traffic facilities that will eventually bring the line to Boston.

"The freighters at present come here direct from Hamburg. From here they go to Baltimore—thence back to Hamburg. But what we are working for is a direct line, both ways, passenger and freight.

"The Hamburg-American line in one year, 1910, handled over 150,000 passengers on its steamers. And 1910 was a poor year at that. Given even a portion of that immense volume of traffic diverted to this port and it is easy to see what the result would be."

General Bancroft's statement was effected by the declaration of J. P. Meyer of the Hamburg-American line, to the New York Harbor Board, that the line would transfer all its business to Boston

MAYOR CONTRIBUTES $25 TO JAKE STAHL AUTOMOBILE FUND

Sporting Editor,
Boston AMERICAN,
Boston, Mass.
Dear Sir:

I am sending you enclosed check for twenty-five dollars toward the purchase of an automobile for Jake Stahl.

Jake ought not to walk any more after the baseball season, and his Boston friends should make it easy for him to ride. The winning of the world's championship by the Boston team should not only be a matter of pride to Boston citizens, but as a business proposition it is worth a good deal to the city. The World's Series will bring thousands of dollars into the city, and Boston will be known throughout the world once more as the city that gives the best there is in baseball. Push it along. Very sincerely,

JOHN F. FITZGERALD.

FANS READY TO WELCOME SOX

Boston, and, in fact, all New England, is waiting for the return of the Red Sox.

The stage, with all its elaborate settings, will be prepared on Sunday afternoon for the grand reception which the Boston gladiators of the diamond will receive on Monday.

Big Sunday Meeting.

On Sunday afternoon in the National Theatre plans will be perfected for the reception of the returning champions. Never in the history of Boston has the victory of a ball team aroused such widespread interest. Never in the history of Boston have such elaborate plans been made to receive, to honor and to pay homage to a home-coming band of whizers. All Boston is talking about that big mass meeting that will be held on Sunday.

Remember the Sunday theatre will be open to all. Everybody is invited and everybody is entered to express their opinion as to how the baseball champions shall be welcomed to their own hunting grounds on Monday.

Mayor Fitzgerald will preside. But that is not all. A good list of speakers

CONNOLLY HOTEL STRIKE LAWYER, FINED $15; APPEALS

Attorney Thomas G. Connolly, counsel for the Hotel Workers' Union, today was fined $15 by Judge Bennett in the Municipal Court for disturbing the peace. Connolly appealed and furnished cash bail of $50 for his appearance before the Superior Court. Connolly, with two other men, was arrested about two weeks ago in a hotel workers' parade. At today's hearing evidence was introduced on both sides.

MRS. ROBERT BISHOP SUES FOR SUPPORT

Mrs. Frances S. Bishop of No. 1,732 Beacon street, Brookline, today filed in the Norfolk Probate Court at Dedham a petition for support from her husband, Robert Bishop, a Boston business man. The wife alleges her husband has been addicted to the habitual use of liquor for several years, and that he has been cruel and abusive and at one time struck her. Mrs. Bishop claims her husband refused to provide a home for hers and their, two children, Dorothy, twelve, and Eleanor, ten. The case will be heard on October 9 before Judge Flint.

QUESTION ONE MORE DYNAMITE WITNESS

The only witness before the Suffolk Grand Jury today when the investigating of the Lawrence dynamite case was resumed was Ernest H. Bradford of the State police. Officer Bradford was on duty in Lawrence during the strike.

PREFER TO DIE SAYS JORDAN

Chester S. Jordan, the condemned wife slayer, wants to die.

"I'd rather go than rot in a prison cell," the doomed man said to a police official, during a conversation about the possibility of Jordan's sentence being commuted to life imprisonment. Jordan was quoted as saying that four years of life behind the bars in the East Cambridge jail were enough for him, and that he did not want to face a life to be spent in a cell at Charlestown.

Despite Jordan's own feelings in the matter, his counsel planned a final desperate effort today to save him from the electric chair, by applying to the Supreme Court for the appointment of a lunacy commission to determine as to his sanity. If this move fails Jordan will die in the electric chair next week, probably early Tuesday morning.

An unexpected visit was paid to the death cell at Charlestown today by Jordan's two sisters, and his brother-in-law, Frederick C. Kendall of West Somerville. The three entered the prison gates in Mr. Kendall's automobile. Mrs. Kendall slightly cried and was followed by her sister, Mrs. Nettie E. Livermore of New York, wife of the famous stock operator, Jesse L. Livermore. The three remained with their kinsman, talking with him, until nearly noon.

Not a kiss, not even a handclasp, was permitted the sorrowing relatives. Nor was Jordan even permitted to touch the beautiful bouquet of flowers which his loved ones had brought to cheer him on his birthday. The flowers were placed in an urn by one of the prison officials and set on a table a few feet away from the SOUTH END GROUNDS, Sept. 20.—The Pittsburgh Pirates were the attraction at the local park this afternoon in their farewell game of the season. This was the last chance for the fans to see Wagner, Donlin and the other favorites and in spite of the weather conditions a fairly good-sized gathering assembled.

Manager John Kling wanted nothing less than an even break with the Pirates and today was his only chance to square things so he had his players hustling from the start in order to win.

Both managers were up in the air as to what pitcher to use today and after the warming up process both managers hesitated as to who to put in for the final fray. The cold weather pitchers warmed up today.

WRITING TEST FOR 'DAKOTA'

Photographs were taken today at the famous Russell will hearing in East Cambridge of what may prove to be the thumbprint of the real Daniel Blake Russell, made while a boy at school in Boston years ago. These are to be compared with thumbprints of Dakota Dan, who is fighting for recognition as Daniel Blake Russell, and the claimant hopes to prove by this novel method that his client is the real Daniel Blake Russell.

By CLEMENT L. POLLOCK.

The continued testimony of Dakota Dan on the witness stand in East Cambridge before Master Pevey, appointed by the Supreme Court to hear the evidence in the remarkable Russell will case, has served to fire the feelings of his large force of supporters to fever heat.

It has also served to spread the interest in the case, so that probably one of every hundred men and women one would meet in the streets of Boston, ninety of them would express an instant and sympathetic opinion as to who they think is the real Daniel Blake Russell.

Fresno Dan, accepted as the man by William C. Russell and Frederick P. Amy, executors of the estate, was disdained openly by those who believe in Dakota Dan.

One of the women even went so far as to attempt to heckle William C. Russell, "the silent man in gray," by asking him jeeringly:

"Why don't you talk to your brother Danny? There he is. Talk to him!"

More Witnesses for Dakota.

DETROIT MAN TELLS OF CORRUPTION FUND

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 20.—Testifying for the prosecution at the hearing of seventeen Aldermen and himself charged with conspiracy to defraud the city, former Councilmanic Clerk Edward H. Schreiter asserted that on July 9 he received a letter from Chicago saying a $10,000 fund had been raised to ruin Schreiter and members of the council politically and financially.

WORK BEGINS ON THE HELL GATE VIADUCT

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—With the letting of a $2,000,000 contract for building the foundations and masonry of the Hell Gate viaduct of the New York Connecting Railroad, which is to unite the New Haven and the Pennsylvania railroads, construction will proceed rapidly. It is expected that the road will be completed in two years.

Twenty-five million dollars is the estimated cost.

WELLAND CANAL TO COST $50,000,000

ST. CATHERINES, Ont., Sept. 20.—The first comprehensive statement of details relating to the new Welland Ship Canal has just been given out by J. L. Weller. Work will commence in the late Spring or early Summer of 1913. Mr. Weller estimates that five years will complete the work at a cost of $50,000,000.

CHAO PING CHUN CHINA'S PREMIER

TIEN-TSIN, Sept. 20.—President Yuan Shi-Kai today appointed Chao Ping Chun to be Chinese Premier, succeeding Tang Shao-Yi, who resigned because of the inability of his country to borrow money to carry out reforms.

RUSSELL PROPERTY DWINDLES

—FRESNO DAN

Fresno Dan, the California claimant to the Russell estate, the hearing on which was resumed today before Master G. A. A. Pevey at East Cambridge, is "getting sick of this thing."

Fresno Dan says:

I'm getting sick of this thing—in fact everybody is but the lawyers.

Fresno Dan declared that he believed Dakota Dan had hypnotized himself into believing that he was Daniel Blake Russell.

"This is how I look at it," exclaimed the Californian. "So many people have told him that he is Daniel Blake Russell that he is actually believing it. That is the only way I can explain his stand."

"Who do you think he is, if he is not Daniel Blake Russell?" Fresno Dan was asked.

"Jim Russell," replied Fresno Dan.

"But Schatz says Jim Russell is dead," was suggested.

"I don't believe he is dead. I believe he is right here in this courtroom. I know who I am and am not worried."

Delayed in Return to Boston.

The man who is accepted by William C. Russell of Melrose as the long-lost brother and whose claim to the name of Daniel Blake Russell is being vigorously fought by Dakota Dan, has returned from the West with the simple explanation that his supposed mysterious absence was merely a delay caused by waiting for funds from the East.

He says he would have been back last Monday, when the September hearings began, but a check for $100 which had been sent to him where he was visiting relatives in Illinois failed to reach him in time.

Fresno Dan gave out a statement to an AMERICAN reporter soon after he came back, in which he airs some grievances, as he sees them.

RED SOX OPEN AGAINST TIGERS

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 20.—The pennant winning Red Sox opened their final series of the season here with the Detroit Tigers today. In spite of the fact that most of the Red Sox regulars are out of the game for a rest up the fans were out in force to get their last look before the Speed Boys battle for the world's title.

Manager Jennings proposed to take advantage of the new lineup of the champions and will take every game in this series possible.

The Detroit fans gave the Boston players a grand ovation when they took the field for practice, headed by Jake Stahl. As there is no National League in this city all of the fans are rooting for the Boston fans.

$150,000 ROBBERS ESCAPE THE POLICE

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Despite a reward of $27,000 offered for their capture, the two bank robbers who escaped with $150,000 loot have not been located. The robbers, it is believed, have most of the large bills taken in the robbery of the Bank of Montreal at New Westminster, B. C., but the smaller notes have been either spent or exchanged for American money. Four of the six men wanted in connection with the robbery are under arrest.

WIFE IN 2 SUITS AGAINST GRACE

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—Mrs. Daisy Ogle Grace, acquitted recently at Atlanta, Ga., of having shot her husband, Eugene H. Grace, with intent to kill him, in her suit for divorce charges cruel and barbarous treatment.

Judge McMichael set the fourth Monday in November as the last day on which Mrs. Grace may file appearance to combat the suit which is brought by Mrs. Grace to anticipate a similar action contemplated by Grace, who is said to be still helpless in his Newnan, Ga., home, as the result of the bullet his wife acknowledged firing. Mrs. Grace also is about to seek the recovery of $18,000 she alleges she conveyed to Grace to establish him in business.

"He was just a lovely boy," said Mrs. Grace. "His was big and handsome and was perfection when in company, but a perfect devil at home.

JOHN D. CENT HE FOUND WORRIES BOY

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 20.—Troubled in his mind because he had kept a penny which he found upon the estate of John D. Rockefeller at Forest Hills, Cleveland, O., instead of returning it to the owner, a twelve-year-old son of Dr. Thomas Dunne, who has just returned from a visit with relatives in Cleveland, has written to Mr. Rockefeller asking whether or not he shall return the cent.

SEARCH FOR BOY ON MOUNTAIN

must have happened to Johnnie, and still if any one has a chance to come out of it all right, Johnnie has, because he is a big, strapping fellow and very level headed."

First Time Away from Home.

Young Keenan is twenty-two years old, one of a family of six sons and daughters. He was graduated from the Warren Grammar School in Charlestown in 1906, and later obtained work in the engineering department of the Boston & Maine road.

He has always lived at home and, as his mother said, this was his first trip from under the parental roof. He left home only last week for the White Mountains, full of enthusiasm for his work.

Dispatches from Faybans, N. H., today said that a new searching party of seventy-five started out to renew the arduous search for the missing youth.

Keenan was one of a surveying party which was mapping out a route Wednesday morning for the new electric road up the mountain. He was lost in the sight of the main party when a heavy cloud rolled in near the Lake of the Clouds.

Others in the party shouted to Keenan to stay where he was and they would come in search of him. He had only been at work a few days and was apparently frightened when the thick cloud enveloped him. It is believed he tried to rejoin the party, became confused, and lost his way.

Ring Bell on Summit.

Hoping to attract his attention, the other surveyors shouted and fired revolver shots, but without result.

The wind was blowing 50 miles an hour and the temperature was only 40 degrees, and Keenan may have perished of exhaustion. It is possible that in the cloud-mist he fell and was stunned or too badly injured to move.

A search of twenty-four hours failed to reveal a trace of Keenan. All last night the bell on the Summit was kept ringing, and the steam whistle at the base was blown at frequent intervals, in hope of attracting his attention. Today every available man on the mountain joined in the hunt.

If, as is feared, Keenan has been lost, it will be the first fatality of the kind on Mt. Washington in twelve years. The last recorded was when William B. Curtis and Allan Dresbee perished in a storm while attempting to ascend the mountain by the Crawford path.

Previous to that there had been several similar fatalities, the first known being the death of Frederick Strickland, an Englishman, in October, 1851, while attempting to descend the Ammonoosuc Ravine. On September 3, 1874, Harry W. Hunter of Pittsburgh perished near the Crawford Bridle Path and his skeleton was not discovered until six years afterward.

MAY REOPEN BIG OIL CASE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—A report based on apparently authentic information was current today that the Department of Justice will reopen the entire Standard Oil case and make a complete investigation of the charge that the Oil Trust has violated the mandate of the United States Supreme Court ordering its dissolution.

The indictment found recently against John D. Archbold and other officials of the Standard Oil Company in Texas, it was stated today by Bruce Bielaski, chief of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, will in effect reopen the case against the Standard Oil Company.

It is the purpose of the proceedings to ascertain just how far and wherein officials of the Standard Oil Company have violated the decree of the Supreme Court dissolving the trust. Trust officials will be called before a Grand Jury and interrogated without having their attorneys present to advise them. It is believed in this manner more of the inside facts of the Standard's business since the dissolution decree could be obtained than by bringing contempt proceedings where the defendants could have the advice of counsel and hide behind the constitutional privilege of self-incrimination.

When the evidence thus acquired is obtained Attorney-General Wickersham, it is said, will take such action as is deemed advisable.

SAYS HUSBAND GONE, ASKS AN ALLOWANCE

Mrs. Gertrude Ricker, until recently living with her husband, Ernest L. Ricker, at No. 8 Arlington street, East Somerville, has filed a petition with the Probate Court at East Cambridge, requesting an allowance from his estate to be used toward her support, on the ground that he has disappeared and his whereabouts are unknown to her.

SAVE YANKEES FROM MEXICANS

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Sept. 20.—Four Americans, who had been taken captive by Mexican insurrectos, were rescued late yesterday after the rebels had been defeated in battle by a Federal force under Colonel Obregon, twenty-seven miles south of Agua Prieta at San Joaquin ranch.

News of the fight was telephoned here by the Americans who were liberated by the Federals. M. L. Pollard, one of the Americans, sent word today he and his companions were enroute here from El Tigre when captured.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 20.—The Mexican Congress took a recess this morning after a riotous night session. The proceedings were the most turbulent ever seen here and the disorder prevented transaction of business. Foes of Madero hissed the President and cheered the name of Diaz. The whole session was devoted to personal and political wrangling, in which crowded galleries joined. Despite a heavy guard kept on the floor by the government, fist fights started.

WOMAN SEEKS SON WHO LEFT WARSHIP

Mrs. Lucine Larson of Milford, N. H., came to Boston today and began a search for her son, Peter W. Larson, eighteen, a musician in the band on the battleship Delaware. Larson left the ship at Newport last Saturday and has not been heard from since. Mrs. Larson, who is stopping at No. 446 Tremont street, asked the police to assist her in her search. The mother told the police her son had been discontented in the navy. Unless he reports for duty by next Wednesday he will be declared a deserter.

Filene's Automatic Bargain Basement

We Prosper Only as We Give Bargains

The lower our first prices, the greater our opportunity of making profit. Strange as this may seem, it is nevertheless true.

See the Red Signs

They mark the lots Automatically Reduced 25% and they mean savings of one-fourth of the original price in addition to what the first price saved you.

They point to economy opportunities that usually last but a short while.

Suppose YOU were a buyer for this basement store. Would you buy goods at regular prices when you knew they must be sold in 12 business days or they would cause you losses?

Suppose YOU were managing this store. Would you make FIRST PRICES high with the practical certainty of having to take 25% off the price after 12 selling days, and 50% after 18 selling days?

The chances are that you would do just as we do. You would buy only bargains, and place them on sale at prices calculated to sell them quickly.

The Automatic Bargain Basement has grown so because it has for three and one-half years adhered to this bargain-making principle.

A Jeweler's Comment

"Why, these diamonds are less than I can buy them at wholesale. Still, another reduction is coming soon, and then I can save even more," he remarked to a salesperson in our new jewelry basement store.

"By then they will have been sold," was the reply; "at these prices they will go quickly."

Her statement is proving true. At this writing there are but a few left.

MORAL—Better to take advantage of the opportunity while you can than to wait in the hope of saving more and lose the chance altogether.

See the results in the bargains tomorrow. Then remember that there are the same opportunities EVERY DAY.

Morgan's $1,000,000 Fragonards Safe In New York City

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The five Fragonards have arrived.

They slipped in quietly from London a few days ago and are secluded in an artistic home in Fifth avenue. In fact, they are kept so secluded that very few people know of their arrival. Yet of their kind the five Fragonards are the most important in the world, for they are those wonders of J. Pierpont Morgan's collection, the five Fragonard panels, and are conservatively valued at $1,000,000. That is about $996,000 more than their author valued them at, for Fragonard held them to be worth 20,000 francs.

They were painted by Fragonard for Madame Du Barry, favorite of the French king, Louis XV., whose ambition was to perpetuate her friendship with the monarch. To insure this the Du Barry commanded the artist to paint four panels which should show her as the central figure, the King appearing as a lovelorn Louis. The panels were to be and are still entitled "The Pursuit," "The Rendezvous," "The Confidence" and "The Crown of Love."

When completed the artist took the four panels to Madame DuBarry and, at her suggestion, tacked them on the walls of his boudoir that she might see the effect.

"Excellent," she exclaimed. "They can remain as they are."

"Pardon me, madame," said the painter, "but there is a matter of 20,000 francs between us—the indebtedness for 'The Woodland,' which I brought to you last month."

Madame Dubarry was furious and refused to pay "the insulting painter." Fragonard was equally furious, and though poor he took the four panels away with him; secretly hoping, of course, that the DuBarry would call him back and settle.

But she did not, and Fragonard in anger added the famous fifth panel, which shows her old and wrinkled and alone. He entitled it "Abandoned."

Mr. Morgan's acquisition of the five Fragonards was conducted with even more secrecy than has marked their importation into New York. Somehow through some of his army of agents scattered all over Europe he heard of the historic five panels and bought them. The French government, to its sorrow and dismay, learned of the American's capture and moved heaven and earth to keep the works of art in France.

Threats to Kill Rosenthal Witnesses

WIVES OF TWO NEW YORK GUNMEN HELD AS WITNESSES IN ROSENTHAL CASE.

Mrs. Harry Horowitz (on left) and Mrs. Louis Rosenweig, the wives of the men who are accused of having fired the shots which killed Gambler Rosenthal. They are not at all disturbed by their arrest, as their pictures show. They were captured in the Brooklyn flat when "Gib the Blood" and "Lefty Louie" were taken into custody.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Almost every witness who is to testify for the State in the trial of the gunmen who shot down the gambler, Herman Rosenthal, in front of the Hotel Metropole, for which killing Police Lieutenant Charles A. Becker is in the Tombs charged with murder, has been warned that he will be assassinated if he "squeals" on the slayers. Others have been offered bribes to leave the State.

William Shapiro, the chauffeur who drove the car in which the murderers fled, has been notified that he will be killed the minute he appears on the street if he tells in court what he knows about the killing. District Attorney Whitman has secured evidence that Shapiro can identify "Lefty Louis," "Gib the Blood," "Waxey Lewis" and "Dago Frank," and he is also certain that he can show conclusively that the killing of Rosenthal was planned and the murderers shielded by the police.

One of the developments today in the complicated chain of sequels to the gambler's assassination, the most important one being the aldermanic investigation of police graft, was the declaration by high city and county officials that Mayor Gaynor had threatened to appeal to the Governor to remove District Attorney Whitman, the man who ran down and arrested the gunmen while the police authorities were frantically endeavoring to cover up their tracks and keep them in hiding.

Mayor Gaynor gave out a long statement defending his administration of the police and made a thinly veiled threat to appeal to Governor Dix for the removal of Mr. Whitman for giving to the press Grand Jury secrets injurious to the police.

Mayor Gaynor's bitterness toward Whitman grew out of the indictment of Gaynor's personal friend and former law partner, Charles H. Hyde, together with Hyde's friends, Joseph Reichmann and W. J. Cunningham.

It was announced today that ex-Mayor McClellan might be called as a witness in the graft probe to tell why Police Commissioner Waldo, who was a deputy commissioner under his administration, left the department. This will have a direct bearing on Waldo's testimony as to his own record.

As a result of the death threats against witnesses for the State, the District Attorney's office will ask Judge Goff for a court order to enforce protection of persons whose testimony is deemed necessary for the conviction of Lieutenant Becker. Becker's trial begins October 7.

Not only have the State's witnesses been warned that they would be killed, but the guilty conspirators have been offering bribes to men and women who know too much to leave the State.

Only yesterday Harry Pollok, the well-known sport promoter, and his wife were taken into custody because the authorities feared they might leave the jurisdiction of the New York courts; and Pollok was very closely identified with the Rosenthal case while Whitman was trailing "Lefty," "Gib," "Whitey" and "Dago Frank."

ALMOST LOSES LIFE IN RESCUE

Patrolman Kenneth Chisholm of the Metropolitan Park police came near losing his life today in his efforts to rescue a drowning man in the Charles River, near the West Boston bridge, and became so exhausted with the frantic man that he had to be drawn from the water by a fellow police officer. The drowning man was Thomas Loney twenty of No. 40 Russell street. Loney had to be taken to the Massachusetts General Hospital to be revived. Later he was arrested on a charge of drunkenness.

The police claimed that Loney jumped into the river, possibly with the intention of taking his life, they thought. Chisholm saw him struggling in the river and throwing off his helmet and coat, plunged in. Loney fought him off for a minute. Chisholm grappled with the young man. Loney continued his battle, and both men sank below the surface.

Chisholm used one arm to bring himself back to the surface. He still clutched Loney by the collar with the other hand. The policeman shouted for help. Hearing his cries, Patrolman Sefton of the Metropolitan Park police hurried to the scene. He reached out a long pole from a nearby float. Chisholm managed to grab the end of the pole and was drawn to the float, dragging Loney behind him.

Chisholm was able to make his way to the police station, where he was warmly congratulated on his heroism. At the hospital Loney was revived after a half-hour's work and was then turned over to the police.

Official Barber for Rockefeller Kiddies Town's Proudest Man

LAKEWOOD, N. J., Sept. 20.—There is a happy barber in Lakewood and his name is Nick. At least that is his "professional" name. His real cognomen is unpronounceable.

Nick's enviable state of mind is due to the fact he has been appointed barber extraordinary to the family of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., at a salary—but that's a secondary consideration. All other Lakewood barbers, according to Nick, are jealous. Perhaps in a short time Nick will alter his sign to read "Nick—Tonsorial Artist to Rockefeller Family—By Standard Oil Appointment."

Mrs. Rockefeller, who with her husband and children is residing in the Strong cottage, walked down Clifton street. Inquiring of a pedestrian where a good barber could be had she was directed to the tonsorial parlor presided over by Nick.

Thither she tripped. The exalted wielder of the scissors was lathering a customer. In his excitement, for he recognized her, he pushed the brush into his client's mouth.

"How do," said Nick with a courtly bow and a flourish of his brush.

"Very well, thank you," laughingly replied Mrs. Rockefeller.

"What can I do for you?" continued the barber.

"I wish you to come up to my house and cut the children's hair," she said.

"I shall be too delighted," said Nick.

"But what is your charge," asked the visitor in a heedless-like manner. Nick managed to mumble "two dollars, ma'm."

After a moment's hesitation she said, "All right," and, the hour having been fixed, departed, leaving Nick in an exalted frame of mind.

About his experiences at the Rockefeller home, Nick was reticent. He admitted Mrs. John D., Jr., was present during the hair-cutting process and made innumerable suggestions as to just how she wanted it cut.

"Mrs. John D., Jr., is the loveliest woman I ever met, and I feel amply honored and repaid," concluded Nick, in denying he had received a tip.

ALL READY FOR NEW WAR IN THE BALKANS

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 20.—Servia and Bulgaria have perfected an alliance of defence and defence against Turkey. The negotiations, which have been secretly conducted for two weeks, ended today. Actual preparations for war are under way. All officers of both armies on leave have been recalled. Both nations have put their forces on a war footing. The first overt act by Turkish troops against either country is expected to result in a prompt declaration of war.

UNCLE SAM MAY NOT EVER PAY $1,700,450

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The debt of the United States government on which interest has ceased, and the greater part of which probably never will be collected from Uncle Sam, aggregates $1,700,450, covering loans all the way from 1790 to 1907. This fact was made public by J. C. Nahler, register of the treasury, in his annual report.

DUEL IN A PUBLIC SQUARE IN PARIS

PARIS, Sept. 20.—A revolver duel between a jealous husband and his rival has been fought in the Place de l'Etoile in the heart of the aristocratic quarter of Paris. Ten shots were exchanged. The husband, M. Simmonet, was slightly wounded, and the last shot fired hit Mme. Simmonet.

WEDDING JOKERS ARE OUTWITTED

Robert F. Dixon, for ten years connected with the Public Library, and Miss Julia L. Lynch of Dorchester were married at the Cathedral rectory. It was thought the wedding would be next Sunday, and all kinds of jokes had been planned by their friends. Miss Anna F. Dixon, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, and Pierce R. Lynch, brother of the bride, was best man.

MRS. ARMOUR IS OPERATED UPON

Take Your Pick! Every Hilton Suit Now in Our Store $12 (Values to $40)

If this sale embraced only the lightest weight suits, fit only for hot weather wear, it would lose half of its significance. Despite these tremendous reductions no penalty has been imposed on the selection. EVERY SUIT IN THE HOUSE is embraced in this offering—all blacks and blues, all the little-more-than-medium-weight suits of early Spring, the regulation Spring weights, the warm weather three-piece Suits, and hot weather two-piece Suits—are all included in this sale.

Inasmuch as this store is pledged to the policy of disposing of EVERYTHING IN SEASON, whether the keeping of that pledge means a sacrifice of prices or not, all suits now remaining of our Spring and Summer lines have been reduced to $12 flat to effect quick selling. These Suits were regularly $40, $35, $30, $28, $25, $22.50, $20 and $18.

Plenty of medium weights suitable for early Fall wear to choose from.

LAST 8 DAYS OF Gwyn's FINAL Clean-Up

Ends Saturday, Sept. 28

Here's an opportunity, right now at the opening of the Fall season, to secure in this final smashing of prices a suit that you can put on now and wear right up into the cold weather, and call into service next season. The same thing holds good on a lightweight Overcoat that will give Fall and Spring service for years. No matter what it is, from the newest Norfolk Model to the most staple blue and black serge, every garment of my light and medium weight stock is now heavily sacrificed for just eight days more at these astounding reductions.

All $15, $18, $20, $22.50 and $25 Suits and Overcoats NOW $9.50

All $28, $30, $35, $40 and $45 Suits and Overcoats NOW $14.50

READY! My Great Exposition of New Autumn Styles

It is the centre of attraction for the really smart dressers of the town, presenting, as usual, styles, shapes, fabrics, colors and patterns that ready-made stocks will not embrace until next year.

I certainly want you to see the new double-breasted styles. When double-breasted suits were last in vogue, the "upholstered" shoulder was in its height, and the beauty of the garment was lost. Now, with natural shoulders, it's a star style—at least as expressed in GEORGES Custom Model Clothes—$12.50 to $40.

The Americanized English soft roll sack suit, in two, three and four-button styles, will please you—$12.50 to $40.

The suit fabrics cover a wellnigh indescribable range of new ideas, prominent among which are the changing two-tone effects Club checks are strong, also wide wale worsteds.

In Fall Overcoats—while black and oxford Chesterfields will lose none of their established popularity, the younger men will snap up my new London plain or pleated belted back coats, in variously colored Scotch tweeds—$12.50 to $35.

My English Cabardines and domestic and foreign Raincoats; a tremendous stock—range $5 to $25.

JORDAN'S FINAL APPEAL FOR LIFE

SLAYER'S ATTORNEYS PLAN TO ASK SUPREME COURT FOR LUNACY COMMISSION.

cell, while Jordan talked with his folks through the bars, with the death watch standing near the group.

Attorneys Bartlett and H. H. Pratt called at the State House yesterday to ask for the appointment of a lunacy commission to examine Jordan.

Governor Foss empowered Attorney-General Swift to act for him and he conferred with Jordan's attorneys for half an hour. None of the men would say what was done, but it is said that Mr. Swift suggested that the Supreme Court has full power to appoint such a commission.

G. Leonard McNeil, a Christian Science reader, visited Jordan again today and they read the Scriptures together.

If a lunacy commission is appointed to examine Jordan, this would act as a stay of execution, unless its work was completed with unusual expedition.

The Supreme Judicial Court has twice turned down Jordan's appeals, once when his counsel appealed for a new trial on the ground of exceptions, again when he sought a rehearing because one of the jurors went insane.

Mrs. Mary H. Jordan sat painfully back through the long reaches of her memory to try to convince the jury her boy was not and had never been like other boys, that he was dull as a child, lacked comprehension, talked thickly, had headaches—everything of which she could think the mother talked in answer to the skilful questioning of her son's lawyers.

It was a piteous spectacle, and one which made every spectator's heart ache.

The mother was cross-examined gently by the District Attorney. But he drew from her the statement that her son never was ill enough to require a physician up to his twenty-first birthday.

Then Jordan's father, two sisters and brother-in-law testified to eccentricities. One of the sisters was Mrs. Livermore, who was financing the defence. By rousing into court and taking the witness stand Mrs. Livermore again showed her zeal for the Jordan cause. But, so far as evidences of insanity went, she could only testify to recalling when her brother ran headfirst into a gate-post when a boy.

Mrs. Livermore furnished the most picturesque feminine element of the trial on account of her wealth, her social position, her metropolitan appearance and the general knowledge that she was the "angel" for the defence.

Toward the close it was a battle of expert alienists, with diametrically opposite opinions. A hypothetical question—a la Thaw trial, of 30,000 words, which the defence started to read, was barred by the judges

According to three experts for the defence Jordan was legally insane on the day of the murder. Therefore he could not be held responsible for the killing.

Hold Jordan Sane.

But three experts for the government held and testified that Jordan was sane the day of the murder and that nothing in the evidence brought out or in the prisoner, as they had observed him, excused him from strict accountability for his act.

Arguments to the jury were made Monday, May 2. The case went to the jury at 3:15 that afternoon. The jury was out nineteen hours. It came in at noon the next day and reported a verdict of:

"GUILTY OF MURDER IN THE FIRST DEGREE."

Four days later Willis A. White, a Maynard farmer, was committed to the Bloomingdale Insane Hospital at Worcester after a hearing before Judge John S. Keyes in Concord District Court.

The first and second chapters of this story of Chester S. Jordan's life related his early life, his "career" as a minor vaudeville actor and his marriage to "Irene Shannon" of the burlesque. They returned to Boston in 1906, set up housekeeping in Somerville and became embittered toward each other. On Thursday, September 3, 1908, the police entered a second-floor back room in the lodging house at No. 7 Hancock street, West End, and there found Jordan with the dismembered body of his wife in a trunk. From the miserable man was extracted a confession that he had knocked his wife down in a quarrel the Tuesday night preceding, found her dead the next morning and cut up the body, seeking to dispose of it.

CHAPTER III.

Twelve Good Men and True.

While the community was still quivering with the shock of the revolting crime two opposing forces were instantly at work, one to prosecute, the other to defend the young husband.

"Murder in the first degree," said the police flatly. Along this line the State proceeded without swerving. The prosecution never considered for an instant any other object than the life of Chester S. Jordan.

If Mrs. Livermore was actuated by mere family pride she did not indicate it. She came forward, to all outward appearance, with sisterly affection. She would save her brother and would spare his and her parents the agony of seeing their son go to the electric chair.

Sister to His Aid.

Mrs. Livermore placed mortgages on her property. She used the large allowance made by her husband. She threw thousands into the legal breach.

So, when Jordan was put on trial for his life on April 20, 1909, in the Middlesex Superior Criminal Court at East Cambridge, there were met for his defence General Charles W. Bartlett, Harvey H. Pratt and J. S. Sullivan, a heavy battery of experience in the criminal law.

District Attorney John F. Higgins of Middlesex prosecuted Jordan. The case was described at the time as the biggest, up to that point, in Mr. Higgins' career as a public prosecutor. He was aided by his assistants, Charles J. Wier and Horace D. Hardy. Judge William S. Stevens and Charles U. Bell presided.

The first juror chosen was Willis A. White, a Maynard farmer. There was cause to remember Juror White later.

Mr. Wier opened for the prosecution. Admitting the government was proceeding on circumstantial evidence he declared the government would show that Jordan stunned his wife with a fruitless, strangled her to death, then cut up the body. He discounted Jordan's "confession" of a quarrel and a blow struck in anger. He made it a deliberate, brutal murder.

Defence Insanity.

Early in the cross-questioning of police witnesses the line of defence became evident—insanity.

The police and medical men were made to tell in every detail of the dismembering of Mrs. Jordan. The spectators inferred that the defence wished to have the jurors feel no sane man could do such a hideous deed and then calmly relate it to the police without collapse.

District Attorney Higgins promptly prepared for the suggested insanity defence by marshalling into court an array of alienists to keep the accused under observation. The defence already had one alienist present. Others came later.

The State used the findings from the autopsy as the crux of its attack. Medical Examiners Magrath, Durrell and Swan testified that Mrs. Jordan's skull was fractured four times with a flatiron; that she was strangled and her throat was cut. Nauseating exhibits were produced.

The stalwart prisoner was nervous at first, but later gained, or assumed, unusual calm—even to the point of yawning at times.

Tells of Mad Seizure.

The defence offered epileptic insanity for its argument, at the same time attacking the government contention that the victim was strangled to death. Thus is sought to show that Jordan killed his wife by irrational blows when in an insane seizure.

Shrewdly the defence fought to break down and refute the government's medical testimony that flatiron blows, strangulation and throat-cutting were combined causes of Mrs. Jordan's death.

Then the defence proceeded along the lonesiny line and, in so doing, put on the stand one of the most pitiful, pathetic witnesses a Massachusetts court ever knew—Jordan's mother.

Assisted to the stand—because her enfeebled eyes could not guide her—

GET NEW FACTS TO CLEAR GIBSON

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—"Burton W. Gibson will have a perfect defence to the murder charge against him, as well as to the proceedings to bar him from being executor of the will of Mrs. Rose Szabo," declared Charles Goldzier, of counsel for Gibson, today after seeing the accused lawyer in the Goshen jail.

Mr. Goldzier brought the information that former District Attorney Robert H. Elder of Kings County had been retained to defend Gibson, in the criminal proceedings. Goldzier will defend Gibson in the proceedings before the surrogate today.

"We will show in the murder trial," said Goldzier, "by the witnesses who attested the signing of the will as well as by others that Mrs. Szabo introduced as her mother a lady whom she presented and that she said 'This is my mama. I have no brothers or sisters and I want my mama to have all of my property.'

"Not only will we prove this by witnesses, but we will present the woman herself—she who was introduced by Mrs. Szabo as her mother. This woman is in Chicago and will appear when wanted.

"If we can prove that Mrs. Szabo introduced a woman as her mother it will absolve Gibson from all responsibility. He cannot be blamed for having dealt, after Mrs. Szabo's death, with a woman whom she introduced as her mother.

"I have in my possession a confidential statement from Gibson to the surrogate which I will present today. I am confident that it will be convincing."

CALL OUT TROOPS IN SPANISH STRIKE

MADRID, Sept. 20.—Negotiations to avert a strike of 22,000 men employed on the railroads in Catalonia having proved futile, the government has begun to take military precautions against acts of violence. Troops have been ordered out.

BALD-HEADS---LISTEN!

By MORTON BIRGE.

Didst hear the glad news out of Arkansaw State,
From wild Arkansaw, where the catamounts roam?
It deals with the certainly singular fate

Friend Graham got into a catamount's way.
The fight that they fought was the worst ever seen.
But Graham won out and, surprising to say,
Has since grown a fine thatch of hair on his bean.

Oh, Bald-Headed friends and those getting that way,
Here's Arkansaw's health and we'll sorrow no more.
Don't wait till tomorrow, but do it today—

You order a catamount sent "on the hoof,"
You tackle the critter for glory and hairs,
You win and, like Graham, you bristle your roof,
You lose—well, you croak and then nobody cares.

Mizner, Mrs. Yerkes' Former Husband, Goes Under the Knife

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Wilson Mizner, the soldier of fortune who married Mrs. Charles T. Yerkes, and was promptly divorced, and who recently collaborated in writing a play now running in Boston, went under the knife today for appendicitis.

"So long, Doc," Misner remarked to a friend outside Rector's. "I've got to go let a doctor make an aldermanic inquiry into my inner works."

Thus blithely did the playwright, magazine scribe, wit and ratchas-catch-can adventurer face the prospect of an operation that might prove fatal. Ten minutes afterwards he was on his way to the Hahnemann Hospital, at Park avenue and Sixty-seventh street. The operation was performed at 9 a. m.

POLICE TO BE ARMED WITH POWDER PUFFS

VENICE, Cal., Sept. 20.—To lend first aid to beauty in distress, Chief of Police Lingo has asked the city trustees to appropriate a sufficient sum to equip each member of the Police Department with a "beauty box," together with such homely adjuncts as thread and needles and hairpins, so that when any woman's attire gets rumpled in the crowds which visit Venice she may be set to rights by the nearest policeman.

ROCKEFELLER GIVES WOMEN PAPER VESTS

CLEVELAND, Sept. 20.—For the second time, John D. Rockefeller and some paper vests have played "My Lord Bountiful" in Bedford. He presented the vests to two women whom he has met on jaunts through the town. "They're great for chills," the magnate declared. "I wear them myself."

MRS. PAT CAMPBELL IS SINKING RAPIDLY

LONDON, Sept. 20.—Little hope is held out for the recovery of Mrs. Pat Campbell, the actress, who is ill at her home in Kensington square. She was stricken suddenly on Sunday. Most of the time this week Mrs. Campbell has been unconscious. She is said to be sinking rapidly.

The EVENING AMERICAN guarantees to advertisers the largest circulation by far of any daily newspaper, and over 300,000 more than the next highest evening paper, and over 100,000 more than all the other Boston evening papers combined. Circulation books open to all.

Mothers Are Given Others' Babies, Say Pittsburgh Women

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 20.—That scores of women in Pittsburgh are unwittingly nursing the children of other mothers is the charge made by members of the Associated Women's Clubs, who have started an investigation of the maternity wards of several city hospitals.

The accusation is that babies born in the hospitals are laid in a row on one bed. When the mother, or any other relative, asks to see the child, it is declared that the nurse just picks up the first one that comes handy and presents it as the real one.

Frequently, it is said, mistakes have been made. It was the suspicion of one young husband that brought the matter to the attention of the women's clubs. The man's name is withheld, as he does not wish his wife to worry.

The announcement that such mistakes have been made has created a sensation in the city and has caused intense worry among scores of young mothers whose babies were born in hospitals and who were separated from them for hours at a time.

WRIGHT CALLS 'PLANE SAFER THAN AN AUTO

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—"Flying today is safer than travelling at the same speed in automobiles, and is certainly much safer than automobile racing," said Orville Wright who is in Washington to inspect scros at College Park, Md., which are to be used by the United States.

Curious Things in the Day's News

POTTSVILLE, Sept. 20.—Fearing that some day an airship would fall on him, Washington Clauser of Hegins drowned himself in Yoder's mill dam, near here.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Herman Dunker, an old Brooklyn bean, has been sentenced by Magistrate Naumor to kiss his wife at least twice a day for seven years.

YONKERS, Sept. 20.—Claiming he put off an inferior grade of hair on her when she sent him a strand of her tresses to be made up into puffs, Mrs. George Harris is suing Micheal Yeganian.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—"Be as loyal to your wife as your dog is to you," was the admonition to Joseph Kernecker, owned by Thomas Brennan after a night in jail with his dog, for cruelty to his wife.

YOM KIPPUR AT SUNSET TONIGHT

One hundred thousand orthodox Jews in Greater Boston begin at sunset this evening to observe with prayer and fasting the annual religious fast of Yom Kippur, or the Day of Atonement. It is the most solemn day in the Jewish year.

Business is suspended, while the devout Children of Israel fill the synagogues. In crowded communities, where the regular places of worship are inadequate to contain the Yom Kippur attendance, extra halls are hired for the twenty-four-hour services.

The Book of Life, according to Jewish belief, is sealed on Yom Kippur. With its sealing, sins become a thing of the past and the new life begins.

In preparation, therefore, every orthodox Jew has spent a period in atoning for past sins by performing good deeds.

During the Yom Kippur period proper strict religious order is maintained. Services are continuous until the sound of the shofar (horn) marks the end of the atonement day.

In the early days, according to the teachings, Yom Kippur was devoted wholly to expiating the sin of the Golden Calf. But, following a chain of distresses which afflicted the Children of Israel, the day was set aside as one on which the sins of all people, Jew or Gentile, should be wiped out and further misfortune prevented.

WOMAN OF 108 TO KEEP YOM KIPPUR

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—When the 200 aged inmates of the Home of the Daughters of Jacob, at Nos. 301-305 East Broadway, assembled they were told that because of their age they might be exempted from the fast of Yom Kippur. Ettel Polansky, 108 years old, said: "I have observed the fast for all the days since I was accepted into the faith. If I am old, what difference can that make? Even should I die, would I not die clean and happy? I will fast, and I believe the others will do likewise."

WRECK OF BRITISH ARMY DIRIGIBLE

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The ill-luck which has followed British army aviators continued today when the Devize dirigible Gamma was wrecked near here when returning from Hardwick, the army manoeuvre camp. This was to have been the last flight in the manoeuvres which ended suddenly Wednesday night.

ACID STOMACHS ARE DANGEROUS

Nine-tenths Of All Stomach Trouble Said to Be Due to Acidity.

A Physician's Advice on Cause and Cure.

A famous physician whose successful researches into the cause and cure of stomach and intestinal diseases have earned for him an international reputation, said in the course of a recent lecture that nearly all intestinal troubles, as well as many diseases of the vital organs, were directly traceable to a deranged condition of the stomach, which in turn was due nine times out of ten to excessive acidity, commonly termed sour stomach or heartburn, which not only irritated and inflamed the delicate lining of the stomach, but also set up gastritis and stomach ulcers. It is interesting to note that he condemns the use of patent medicines as well as of medical treatment for the stomach, stating that he and his colleagues have secured remarkable results by the use of ordinary bisurated magnesia, which, by neutralizing the acidity of the food removes the source of the trouble. He contends that it is as foolish to treat the stomach itself as it would be for a man who stepped on a tack to rub liniment on the foot without first removing the tack. Remove the tack and the foot will heal itself—neutralize the acid and stomach troubles will disappear. Irritating medicines and medical treatments are useless, so long as the contents of the stomach remain acid; remove the acidity, and there will be no need for medicine—the inflamed lining of the stomach will then heal itself. Sufferers from acidity, sour stomach or heart burn should get a small bottle of bisurated magnesia from their druggist, and take half a teaspoonful in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after meals, repeating in fifteen minutes, if necessary, this being the dose which the doctor has found most efficacious in all cases.

"VALJEAN'S" SEAT DECLARED VACANT

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—The seat of William Burke, the Councilman who during the Summer recess made a public confession that he was once a convict in the Massachusetts State Prison at Charlestown, became vacant when his resignation was read to the Common Council and ordered inscribed in the Journal. No comment was made by Burke's former colleagues.

TROLLEY CAR HITS SURREY; FOUR HURT

STONINGTON, Ct., Sept. 20.—At a sharp curve on the Norwich & Westerly trolley tracks here four persons were injured, two of them perhaps fatally, when an express freight car struck the surrey in which they were driving. The injured are: Ivald Smith, Oakland, Cal.; Mrs. Smith, ribs broken and back injured; Miss Kate Copp, St. Louis, Mo., broken arm and internal injuries; Miss Emily A. Copp, Groton, internal injuries.

EDISON SAYS COLONEL IS MAN HE FAVORS

ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 20.—Thomas A. Edison is for Theodore Roosevelt. He said today: "Roosevelt's going to win. Reasons? Why, because he's the man for the job. He's real, he's alive. He has brains, he has ideas, he has courage and he has understanding of conditions."

Our Prices Are $5 to $10 Lower Than Elsewhere on Misses' and Girls' Smart Apparel

A wave of popularity is sweeping over our Misses' and Girls' Apparel Sections. We have that difficult knack of satisfying both mother and daughter. Our low prices are the sensation of the season. But this could not possibly be true if it were not for the fact that our styles are creating a veritable furore among the members of the young set. Second Floor

Through our oldest New York store, Simpson Crawford Co., leaders of fashion for two generations, and our Paris office, which serves the entire organization of four stores, our relations with the style centers of the world are so much closer than any other Boston store that it is to be expected that those who really want to know what's what in the fashion of the moment should turn to Henry Siegel Co. Here you will also find something novel and different, something you will like better than anything you will see elsewhere. There is nothing garish about our styles. They represent the cleverest ideas of the world's leading designers.

Take for Example Our Misses' Suits at $19.75

The quality of the materials and the workmanship are worth at least $25.00, and there is more style than you will see in some of the $20.00 and $25.00 models around town. Each suit is a reproduction of a high-class imported model. The original of one of these suits would cost two or three times as much as we ask. Materials are the popular serges, cheviots, diagonals and whipcords in all of the wanted shades. Some of the models have trimming of wide braid, and the popular braid-bound cut-away coats are also shown. All coats are lined throughout. Sizes 13 to 18 inclusive. Henry Siegel Co.'s price..... $19.75

Misses' Suits at $14.75—Include serges, cheviots, herringbones attractively tailored as well as tastily trimmed models are shown. Trimming is by contrasting shades, velvet and fancy buttons; effects are used as trimming, all coats are lined throughout. Sizes 13 to 18 $14.75

$20.00 Johnny Coats at $12.75

Another example of the wonderful values you secure at Henry Siegel Co.'s. We are selling hundreds of Johnny coats because we offer a real $20.00 value for $12.75. We cannot get them fast enough to supply the demand, but will say this. "We have received a new lot for today and Saturday's selling and advise all who want them to come at once."

New styles have been added. The coats are made of chinchilla, various shades with plain and plaid backs. Also polo cloth and mixtures. Sizes 14 to 18 inclusive.

Misses' Coats—Made of a rich brown mixture material with leather trimming and handsome buckle ornament. Also other styles made of chinchilla, diagonal weaves and other materials, in all shades, sizes 13 to 18..... $18.50

Misses' Serge Dresses styles. The colors include navy, tan and robins' egg blue. A neat touch of trimming at front of collars adds greatly to the appearance of these dresses. Sizes 14 to 18..... $6.98

Misses' Dresses—Made of serge in navy, black, and other shades, one model is trimmed with rows of white stitchings, and others have Robespierre collar, fancy cuffs, etc. Sizes 14 to 18, sale price..... $8.98

Misses' Dresses—Of exceptional merit; made with collar, cuffs and vest effect of contrasting color velvet. Many other trimming ideas are shown. Blue, black and brown are a few of the colorings. Sizes 14 to 18..... $12.75

Our Showing of Girls' School Dresses is most complete. The wash dresses range in price from 98c to $3.98 and the cloth dresses from $2.98 to $8.98. Only the best materials, workmanship and the very latest style models are represented. Sizes 6 to 14.

GOODWIN MUST ABANDON STAGE

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—It is almost certain that Nat C. Goodwin, the comedian who has delighted thousands by his art as a funmaker all over the world, will never again appear on the stage to play a part.

A letter received here by his friend John Ernest Warren, secretary of the American Dramatists' Association, brought the news from California that the actor is now paralyzed in his lower limbs.

The letter explained that the stories of Goodwin's mishap already published have been misleading, and that the facts of his accident and his condition have been inaccurately given. The facts, as detailed by the Californian friend of the actor, are that Goodwin is suffering from a fracture of the pelvic bone, which was not discovered for some time after he was thrown out of the boat and received his injuries.

Dashed Against Rocks.

Goodwin, his secretary, Miss Moreland, and the captain, Al Hyder, started in the actor's yacht to look at some property on a sand strip beyond Yerba Buena canon, on the Malibu coast, on August 15, during the brief period of excessively high tides which prevail at the time. On arriving at the place the entire party was going to land but, owing to the heavy surf running at the time, Captain Hyder refused to allow Miss Moreland to get into the small boat. He and Goodwin went alone. As the boat neared the shore a high sea overturned it and, as Goodwin was fighting through a breaker fully 12 feet high, a second heavy sea picked up the decrepit actor and dropped him from the crest of the wave on to Goodwin.

Captain Hyder fought for twenty minutes before he could rescue Goodwin, who was almost helpless, having been dashed against the rocks.

It was not until two weeks afterward that the fracture of the pelvic bone was discovered, and the delay in that discovery probably saved the patient's life. In almost every case of such a fracture it is customary, the physicians declared, to perform an operation instantly. The doctors agreed, on discovering the fracture, which had been hidden by swelling, that the delay in discovering the fracture had probably saved Goodwin's life, as in his present condition the usual operation would almost certainly have proved fatal. They now find that no operation will be necessary.

Actor Grows Morose.

Since the accident the condition of the actor's mind has not been good, and his friends fear a breaking up of his mental powers. He is said to have become morose and morose, due to his fear that he will never be able to walk again or appear on the stage. He is just able to draw himself up by his arms in bed and use them to change his position, but is unable to use his legs or feet.

SOLDIER SHOOTS ANOTHER IN ERROR

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 20.—Just before midnight members of Company M of Terra Alta fired upon several men attempting to see fire to a tipple at South Canton. One man was fatally injured. At Cherokee, Charles Campbell, a private of Company E of Parkersburg, on picket duty, was mistaken for an intruder by another sentinel. Each opened fire on the other. Campbell was shot in the arm and breast.

RASH ON BABY'S FACE AND LIMBS

Itched So He Would Wake Up Nights and Cry. Hard Blotches on Face. Scratched and They Bled. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed Him.

346 Coram Ave., Shelton, Conn. —"My baby had a terrible breaking out on his face this summer. I thought it was from the heat but after a while it spread all over his face. It itched so he would cry and would wake up nights and cry with the pain. The rash came on his face and limbs, and I tried several ointments and then tried a powder, hoping to dry up the sores, but it did not seem to help any. It raised great hard blotches on his face which he scratched and then they would bleed and at nights to keep me awake with his fretting. My husband advised me to use Cuticura Soap and I did and it stopped the irritation at once, so I used some Cuticura Ointment on the sores which healed them, but I kept using the Cuticura Soap and now not a scar is on his face.

"My boy, aged eight years, was bitten by some insect which caused him much pain and later developed into a boil. After it had discharged all the poison it did not heal so I washed the parts with Cuticura Soap and then applied Cuticura Ointment which healed it perfectly. I cannot praise Cuticura Soap and Ointment enough." (Signed) Mrs. Walter Edwards, Dec. 16, 1911.

No other emollients do so much for pimples, blackheads, red, rough skins, itching, scaly scalps, dry, thin and falling hair, chapped hands and shapeless nails, nor do it so economically. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

ORGANIZED BAND ROBS POSTOFFICES IN TWO PLACES

Chief Postal Inspector Lawrence Leatherman received notices today of post-office burglaries during the night at Griswoldville, in the town of Shelburn Falls, and at Epping, N. H. At Epping nearly $1,400 was secured in cash and stamps. The amount taken at Griswoldville had not been learned.

Mr. Leatherman believes the two jobs were the work of one gang, divided into two gangs. The offices are about 200 miles apart. It is believed that the burglars traveled by automobiles and that they have organized to continue the postoffice breaks which kept the postal authorities and local police so busy last Fall.

At Epping the postoffice safe was blown open with dynamite, the report shaking the town. At Griswoldville, where the safe was smaller, gunpowder was used. Postal Inspector Harry Robinson left Boston for Griswoldville. Thence he will go to Epping.

WALKER TALKS AT NOON RALLY

Joseph Walker, formerly Speaker of the House of Representatives and candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, declared that the high cost of living is the most pressing problem of the day, in his speech at his rally for business men at noon today in Faneuil Hall. George S. Smith, former president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, presided. Another speaker was Amos T. Saunders, chairman of the Walker campaign committee, who said his candidate would carry every Republican ward in Boston at the primaries.

Walker spoke on "The Commonwealth as a Business Concern." He declared the time had come for the State to take an inventory and see where it stood. He said the high cost of living problem was to be solved by honest investigation, sound thinking and intelligent action.

"In business we must eliminate special privilege, unfair and coercive practices and arbitrary control and manipulation of output and prices. We must destroy monopoly, a term which implies exclusive right or privilege.

"I should like an opportunity as Governor to finish the work to which I have given the best years of my life."

WILD ELEPHANT WRECKS COACH

CALCUTTA, India, Sept. 20.—An attack by a wild elephant on the Mallaidoo-Vi-Tankulam mail coach, in the northern province of Ceylon, is reported from Colombo. Appearing unexpectedly from the jungle, the elephant killed the driver with one blow of its trunk and then proceeded to smash the coach against a telegraph pole. The passengers, who were thrown out of the vehicle, hid themselves in a calvari. When the animal disappeared into the thicket the frightened travelers climbed a tree, where they remained throughout the night.

BREWERS ELECT MORE TRUSTEES

At the executive meeting of the National Brewers' Convention at Hotel Copley-Plaza the following new members were added to the board of trustees: Julius Stroh of Detroit, William J. Lemp of St. Louis, Frank Fehr of Louisville, G. L. Becker of Ogden, N. Y., and S. F. Fleming of Fort Wayne.

The chairmen of the various committees elected today are John Gardiner of Philadelphia, chairman of the religious committee; A. G. Hupfel, Jr., of New York, chairman of the publication committee; Louis B. Schram of Brooklyn, chairman of the labor committee; James R. Nicholson, president of the Massachusetts Brewers' Association, chairman of the advisory committee; R. A. Faust of St. Louis, chairman of the crop improvement committee; C. W. Felgenspan of New Jersey, chairman of the transportation committee, and August Goebel, Jr., of Michigan, chairman of the committee in membership.

Edward Rubl, Charles Pfaff, Henry A. Reuter and Arthur Alley, all representing Boston brewery interests, were elected to executive committee of the national body.

The association is strongly in favor of a move for concentrating the hop-raising industry in the Sacramento Valley, Cal. A proposition which will eventually revolutionize the industry, now noted for its uncertain crops and speculative features, has already been presented to the trustees, according to statements made in an interview by S. Fritz Nave, representing the E. Clemens Horst Company.

The soil and climate of the Sacramento Valley are said by experts to be the best in the world for growing of hops. The growers who were at the Copley-Plaza today were heartily in favor of development of the region on a colossal plan.

WOMAN'S BONES FOUND BURIED NEAR LAKE

TUFTONBORO, N. H., Sept. 20.—The partial skeleton of a woman, found buried in the sandy shore of Lake Winnepesaukee by G. T. Dudley, remains a mystery to the local authorities. The bones inside the head, most of the ribs and some of the lower limbs. Some of the bones are in pieces but whether from violence or not has not been determined. The finder notified the coroner's office at Ossipee and, failing to receive any instructions, has now forwarded the bones to First Selectman John Edgerly.

THE CHILDREN'S STORE

We mean to be your quick and safe guide for everything that counts in fitting out children.

If you care to know what the designers, makers and we have been doing for their Autumn wardrobe—come and see. As your eyes light on tables, cases and racks, you'll realize that none of us have been idling.

Plenty out of the common to attract you. There is much to admire in style and quality. This is the way some of the prices run:

$3.95 One-piece Dresses, made of all-wool serge, waist has Gibson pleats, skirt also pleated, trimmed with velvet and fancy buttons, embroidered Dutch collar; sizes 6 to 14 years.

$4.95 Russian Blouse Dresses, all-wool, brown or navy serge, blouse trimmed with satin, gored skirt; sizes 10, 12 and 14 years.

$4.95 Sailor Suits, one- and two-piece models, made of all-wool serge, trimmed with braid and emblems; sizes 8 to 14 years.

$2.95 "Bestyette" Rain Capes, with school bag, sateen outside, lined with rubber, navy or red; sizes 6 to 14 years.

$2.95 Slicker Raincoats, cemented seams; sizes 10 to 14 years. Adapted from the "slicker" of the cowboy. Most serviceable of all rain-proofed garments.

$1.95 All-wool Sweaters; brown, red, white or Oxford; roll collar, finished with pockets; sizes 6 to 14 years.

$2.95 All-wool Sweaters, coat model, heavy mannish weave, high roll collar, full-fashioned seams; sizes 8 to 14 years.

$5.00 Coats made of chinchilla, cheviot or corduroy, double-breasted box model, lined throughout; sizes 2 to 6 years.

$8.75 Coats made of all-wool cloth, in handsome zibeline effect, double-breasted model, fitted back, velvet collar, patch pocket; sizes 8 to 14 years.

$9.50 Mackinaw Coats, made of rich, soft, warmthful brown, gray and blue plaids, finished with belt and patch pockets; sizes 13 to 15 years.

CHILDREN'S UNDERMUSLINS

29c for 39c Drawers, made of Masonville muslin, embroidery edge, headed with tucks, sizes 2 to 16 years.

49c for 65c Night Gowns, made of Masonville muslin, Hubbard model, trimmed with embroidery, sizes 4 to 16 years.

GIRLS' AND MISSES' TRIMMED HATS

It all looks very charming and simple—but suppose those bewitching bows were carelessly tied or placed without grace, or the curly, fluffy feathers tucked away in the wrong spot, or the crowns were clumsy and the brims awkwardly tilted.

Very few people, except mothers, realize that girlish simplicity is one of the hardest things in the world to catch, and that it takes as much, if not more, of an artist to create Millinery for the little folk as it does to plan for the grown-ups.

The dashingest Hats this Fall are the furry beavers, silky plushes, velours, velvets and felts trimmed with ribbon, fancy feathers, wings, flowers, foliage and ornaments.

GIRLS' SCHOOL SHOES

MISSES' SCHOOL SHOES—TAN RUSSIA CALFSKIN—STRAIGHT, WIDE LAST—GOODYEAR WELTED SOLES—BUTTON OR LACE MODEL—

PRICE $2.50

¶ There, you have the six fundamentals of these particular Shoes.

¶ Precisely the same statements may be truthfully made of perhaps half a hundred Shoes on the market.

¶ Getting the real facts before the public that make these Shoes superior and distinctive, is one of our Advertising Problems.

¶ Once your eye is on them you see the difference. The stock is close-grained, mellow and pliable.

¶ The unanimous verdict of experts and critics that for natural grace, ease, comfort and common sense the last is the best in the land. Roomy and broad, affording freedom without constriction or compression.

¶ Examine the finish. The leather insoles are soft and smooth. Top facings and button flies are firm kidskin. Backs are stayed against ripping.

¶ We've the same Shoes in Gun Metal and Vici Kid. The price—$2.50—is a pocketbook opener.

P. S.—Only absolute knowledge of and confidence in these Shoes induce us to say that if you buy a pair of them and have any reason to be displeased, we'll give you a new pair, or other goods, or your money back.

RUSH GUARDS TO BINGHAM MINES

BINGHAM, Utah., Sept. 20.—Deputy sheriffs are rapidly arriving here from various parts of the State to reinforce the guard placed upon the army of striking miners, who, fortified and determined, hold possession of the copper, lead and silver mines of Bingham.

While the army, 4,000 strong, dug breastworks, strengthened its picket lines and worked out a rough form of military discipline, there was activity in the offices of the mining companies and the headquarters of the county and State officials. Developments seem to depend upon the success of Governor Spry, who has been asked to urge the strikers to surrender the mines, give up their arms and wait in patience the success or failure of the mine managers' efforts to figure out means by which their demands can be granted.

5,000 ATTACK STREET CARS IN SUPERIOR

SUPERIOR, Wis., Sept. 20.—A mob of 5,000 strikers and sympathizers attacked wrecking six cars and beating the crews and guards. More than thirty persons were injured.

WOULD EXPAND RETAIL SECTION

The expansion of the retail shopping district to avoid the traffic congestion on Washington street is urged by the Street Commissioners, in a statement issued by James A. Gallivan, a member of the Board.

They suggest the widening of Chauncy street to seventy feet, at a probable cost of $1,500,000, and the removal of surface cars from Washington street between Winter and Boylston streets.

Prohibiting traffic in the main thoroughfare at certain hours and making Washington street, between Cornhill and Boylston street, a one-way street, as has been suggested, are not deemed feasible propositions by the Board. The widening of Chauncy street would tend to extend the shopping district, the Commissioners say, and with the car tracks removed from part of Washington street the sidewalks could be made much broader.

TURKO-ITALIAN PACT NOW THOUGHT NEAR

CHIASSO, Switzerland, Sept. 20.—The Italian and Turkish delegates who are holding peace conferences have received new instructions from their governments, and, contrary to the view prevailing, it now seems certain that the conclusion of a basis upon which to negotiate peace is being approached.

Delegate to Chambers of Commerce Convention Is Delighted With Boston.

By SYBIL WARNE.

Dr. Shiv Nath Kapoor, the first delegate to arrive from India to the International Congress of Chambers of Commerce, which will meet this week in Boston, is very much pleased with Boston and the Boston women. He thinks that they are very beautiful. He said:

"Boston women are really beautiful.

"They look so white, but they are beautiful in manner and countenance.

"They like loose fitting garments in preference to your tight fitting ones."

Dr. Kapoor belongs to the high caste society of his country and comes from Karachi and Multan city, British India. For ten years he was in the diplomatic service of the English government at Gilgid.

Boston appeals to him as one of the best cities he has visited in his long trip.

Commercial relations between India and America he believes will be established by the coming Congress. If there were more Americans in India selling goods, as agents, he thinks that we would have a larger market for them.

While in this city he will look over carefully our advertising methods, as he looks upon advertising as one of the best ways to sell goods and to make them known.

First Visit to America.

It is my first visit to America. I started from India on August 15, and have been only a few days in Boston. But I am pleased with what I have seen already," said Dr. Kapoor.

"I have heard since arriving here that your women smoke. No woman in my country with any caste smokes. It does not make any difference how they try to establish a custom like this, it would not take in India.

"I've noticed the manner of dress among the women here. The loose garments in India are much to be preferred to the costumes I have seen on the streets.

"Your women look so white to me. They are really beautiful, both in manner and countenance. Only I wish that they would dress differently than they do. I think that they would improve their outward appearance by it."

Child Marriages in India.

When asked about child marriages in India, he at once replied: "We have laws governing marriages in India, and no girl younger than twelve or boy younger than fourteen is allowed to be married.

"Now, in some parts of India this law may not be obeyed, but with the more intelligent of my nation it is respected.

"I'm here to study your business methods and to get acquainted with your representative men in commerce. I believe America will have larger business relations with India and in the near future.

"You are selling us more durable machinery. While Germany has monopolized much business in India, this can be accounted for on the ground that this nationality is constantly sending agents into our country and selling their goods by this means.

"Americans have good stuff to sell and we are finding this out. Trade with your country is bound to develop. Only we must get to know one another better. If you had Americans in India to the same extent that Germans are there, you would sell more goods."

FARMER BEATS OFF ROBBERS

Eugene Mayberry, a farmer living in Carlisle, who was returning from Boston market on his wagon, was held up, beaten and robbed in Bedford by three highwaymen.

Mayberry gave the robbers such a battle that they were glad to flee after they had obtained but a few dollars in silver, not being able to get possession of Mayberry's roll of bills.

The attack was made in front of Lexington Park on Bedford street. One of the men stepped into the road and stopped Mayberry's horse and asked him about the road to Lexington. The other two men got on the wagon and began to beat Mayberry. One used a club and the other his fists. Mayberry returned some severe jolts, and after the two robbers had seized his silver from his pockets they were glad to get off the wagon and join the third man in a flight into the woods.

Mayberry then drove to the house of Chief of Police Kelley and reported the matter. Kelley notified Chief Franks of Lexington and Chief Urquhart of Arlington, and a force was sent out after the robbers.

TRAVELS 4,000 MILES TO MARRY LYNN GIRL

Harry Donald Cowles, after a 4,000 mile journey from Tacoma, Wash., has married Miss Alice Louise Blaney of No. 107 Hanover street, Lynn. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge Blaney.

SCHOOLS, $38,300,000.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—It will cost $38,300,000 to run the New York schools next year, according to the budget prepared by the Board of Education. This is an increase of $4,500,000.

INDICT CITY OFFICIALS.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Sept. 20.—A. L. Moore, former Mayor, Marshal Long, Police Captain Treagerty and Sergeant Hensel, have been indicted for malfeasance in office.

CLARK LOST CHANCE, HE SAYS, 'ONLY BY GEORGETOWN GRAZE'

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 20.—Speaker Champ Clark, in a speech here, declared the Democrats would elect a President, Vice-President, Senate and House. He said:

"It is needless to tell you that Woodrow Wilson was not my first choice for President, but, nevertheless, he was nominated, and he is as much my candidate as he is of any other Democrat betwix the two seas. I made three speeches for him in Maine, one in Massachusetts and three in Missouri.

"It must be that the critical scribes expected me to turn flip-flops or handsprings or to dance a Spanish fandango or a highland fling to show that I was immensely tickled at being defeated for the presidential nomination by the closest shave on record—by what you Kentuckians denominate a 'Georgetown graze.'

"Wilson and Marshall will be elected. Colonel Roosevelt will see to that."

STRENGTHEN THE STOMACH

Complete Relief from Indigestion Is Possible Only by This Method of Treatment.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have this important advantage over other remedies for stomach troubles. They strengthen the stomach until it is capable of a good digestion. This is the most direct and certain way to get the complete relief every sufferer from indigestion wants. All the time you are taking the pills you are getting more and more nourishment from your food. This is important, too, for you begin to feel better in every way because of this added strength. You will be happily surprised to find that you are getting a hearty appetite; that you can eat food that you relish, without distress; that your headaches are gone; that you are no longer troubled with gas or acid stomach. It is safe to say that nothing will so quickly cure you of stomach trouble as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

The experience of Mrs. M. A. Hardy, a farmer's wife, whose address is R. F. D. No. 3, Carmel, Me., should convince you of the merit of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says:

"I suffered terribly with stomach trouble. The attack came on me suddenly while I was in a run-down condition. My stomach was so weak that I could eat nothing but broth and gruel. There was a constant sharp pain through my stomach which was so severe at times that I could hardly get my breath. My stomach was sour and gas formed on it in such large quantities that it almost choked me when I tried to belch it up. I had no desire for food of any kind. My heart palpitated and was a sort of neuralgic pain around it. I had dizzy, suffocating spells and sick headaches as often as three or four times a week. While my headache lasted I could not work.

"One day I read in the paper that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People were good for stomach trouble and soon began taking them. A few boxes afforded me relief and I continued with them until cured. I have never had any trouble with my stomach since."

A free booklet, "What to Eat and How to Eat," will be sent upon postal card request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

MILKMEN URGE CO-OPERATION

Milk producers from all parts of the State attended a meeting at City Hall this afternoon, held by the Boston Board of Health in connection with Mayor Fitzgerald's movement to establish in Boston independent milk stations from which consumers could buy milk directly from the farmers. The meeting opened at 2 o'clock. There were several speakers. The suggestion was made that the organization of milk producers co-operate with the consumers as the Joint Consumers and Producers' Co-operative Association.

George Kruse, Jr., of Williamsville, declared the milk situation in Massachusetts cities, and especially Boston, had become critical. He accused the milk contractors of having built up a monopoly.

Urges Co-operation.

"It will be difficult to say whether in the end the State should undertake the distribution of milk in Boston and other cities," said Kruse. "It is not easy to say that the Board of Health should act after the distribution of milk, or that the farmers should do it of their own initiative. But whatever is done, let the officials to be used be the results of co-operation between the farmers and the consumers. Such a system would benefit both producer and consumer."

In circulars mailed to their producers today the H. P. Hood & Sons Company of Charlestown announced an offer of an increase in the price to the producer for milk, without increasing the cost to the consumer. The increase is for an average price of thirty-eight cents per can of eight and one-half quarts for six months beginning October 1. The lowest price offered is thirty-five cents for March, and the highest is forty cents for November and December. The Hood Company says:

Hood Statement.

In paying the farmer this very large price without any advance in the city, we must ask for the co-operation of both producer and consumer as we shall have to study our business more carefully than ever before to make a reasonable profit. We ask that consumers remember that clearance alone costs us more than forty thousand dollars a year, which we can largely save with their co-operation, and also that there must be a loss on the delivery of a pint jar of milk up several flights of stairs, since it costs as much to deliver a pint jar as it does the larger package and this could be eliminated if family customers who now use a pint of milk would use at least a quart.

We have aimed in the past and shall strive still harder to lead in a better milk supply for Boston and we feel sure these prices will give the farmer every incentive to produce the highest quality of milk. But consumers will please remember that the United States government states that the milk supply of Boston is the best in the country at the present time.

RUNAWAY ROLLER BREAKS DOWN TREE

MRS. CLARE HENRY ACCUSED OF PERJURY

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 20.—The cottage colony at Narragansett Pier was surprised when Mrs. Clare Kummer Henry of New York was placed under arrest on a charge of perjury. Mrs. Henry is well known as a writer of songs, and she is a grand niece of Henry Ward Beecher. The alleged offence is said to have been committed in connection with a civil suit against her for the collection of a bill. In court she pleaded not guilty.

DENNIS, Sept. 20.—Benjamin Walker made a record day's work by harvesting nineteen barrels of cranberries in a six-hour day. The day before he gathered thirty-two barrels. The first day's work yielded Walker $14.28, at eight cents a measure.

WORLD SERIES? CHINESE TOSSERS INVADE CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Chinese ball players from the University of Honolulu are to invade Chicago for a three-game series, starting with Sunday. The Chinese exclusion laws have kept out regular nines from the "Flowery Kingdom," the members of the clubs now on tour being American citizens, through their Hawaiian parentage. The Chinese have a reputation of having perfected a wonderful defence at the expense of their hitting.

THE CONTEST—The Boston AMERICAN'S $40,000 Contest is a subscription and voting competition which is open to every man, woman and child in New England, irrespective of age, except employes of the AMERICAN and their families. Forty thousand dollars in Cash and Prizes will be awarded. The contest opens next Sunday, Sept. 22, and ends February 28.

THE CANDIDATES—Every man, woman or child who is a legal resident of New England is eligible to compete. Participation in any previous AMERICAN contest does not debar anyone.

THE ENROLLMENT—Each candidate must be regularly enrolled from his or her permanent address on the ENROLLMENT BALLOT provided for that purpose, which appears daily in the AMERICAN.

The first Enrollment Ballot received before Sunday, September 22, will count for 800 votes. Only the FIRST ENROLLMENT will count for a vote credit.

THE VOTE COUPONS—Vote Coupons from the daily or Sunday AMERICAN will count. One vote coupon will appear in each issue of the AMERICAN (daily and Sunday) during the life of this contest. Each vote coupon in the daily AMERICAN will be good for 5 votes. Each vote coupon in the Sunday AMERICAN will be good for 25 votes.

Each vote coupon will be good for two weeks from the date printed in the AMERICAN (Sunday AMERICAN coupons for two weeks).

Vote coupons should be tied together in bundles of 100, keeping the 5-vote coupons separate from the 25-vote coupons. All contestants are requested to use a rubber stamp containing contestant's name and address and district number. Only the top three or four coupons in each bundle of 100 need be stamped. Votes should be sent in one bundle, with contestant's name and address and district number and the total number of votes said to contained in package marked on the OUTSIDE of the WRAPPER.

THE SUBSCRIPTION PLAN—A vote credit will be allowed for subscriptions turned in for the Sunday AMERICAN (subscriptions to the daily AMERICAN will not be received).

You do not have to collect subscriptions in advance, but as an evidence of good faith each Sunday AMERICAN subscription turned in must be accompanied by a small cash GUARANTEE payment.

The GUARANTEE payment is required to make the contest absolutely fair and equal to everyone, and as an assurance of good faith of the subscriber in giving the order and of the candidate in turning it in. The GUARANTEE PLAN will help all candidates greatly because only a SMALL AMOUNT in cash is required, and that simply as an evidence of good faith.

300 Prizes in Each District

Capital Prize Open to All Districts

1501 Prizes in All

Length of Subscription.	Guarantee Required.	Vote Credit.
4 MONTHS	25 CENTS	1,500
13 MONTHS	50 CENTS	3,900
26 MONTHS	$1.00 CENTS	7,800

This cash guarantee, in each case, will be deposited with the AMERICAN'S Auditing Department as an evidence of good faith on the part of both subscriber and contestant. Every person, who subscribes to the Sunday AMERICAN agrees to accept and pay for the paper regularly at the regular newsdealer's rate during the term subscribed for. The guarantee received in each case will not apply to the cost of the subscription until near the time of expiration. All subscribers must begin to pay for the paper regularly, beginning with the newsdealer's first delivery, with the understanding that the guarantee paid in each case will be deducted from the cost of the LATTER PART of the subscription in copies of the Sunday AMERICAN without charge TO THE AMOUNT of the guarantee (whatever it might be).

DELIVERY OF PAPERS—Each subscription blank will contain a blank space in which subscribers may write the name and address of any newsdealer or newsboy whom subscribers may prefer to have deliver the paper.

Just as soon as subscriptions are received in the Contest Department an order will be sent to a newsdealer or newsboy in subscriber's district, giving instructions for immediate delivery of the Sunday AMERICAN for the term subscribed for. The newsdealer will then start delivery of the Sunday AMERICAN and will collect from subscriber each week, except for the term at the LAST END of the subscription covered by the guarantee paid, at which time he will deliver copies of the Sunday AMERICAN without charge to the value of the guarantee amount paid.

THE WINNERS—The one who receives the largest number of votes, irrespective of districts, will be awarded the capital prize. The ones who receive the largest number of votes in each district will be awarded the prizes as scheduled. In the event of a tie, each one of any contestants who are being tied, similar prizes will be given to each winner so tied.

SPECIAL NOTICE—The AMERICAN will not be responsible for any subscription sent in through the mails in any form other than postoffice money order, express order or certified check, addressed to AMERICAN Contest Department, P. O. Box 2047, Boston, Mass. Cash sent through the mails will be sent at the risk of the person sending it.

Votes cannot be transferred from one contestant to another after receipt of same by the AMERICAN.

No person can win more than one prize.

The AMERICAN reserves the right to amend these rules and conditions from time to time, if it may seem necessary, in order to protect all contestants from any possible contingency which may arise.

The Contest Editor will decide all disputed questions carefully and in good faith, and his decisions shall be final and conclusive.

MAYOR CLAIMS FOSS IS VICTOR

Declaring the national leaders will give up hope of carrying Massachusetts for Wilson and Marshall if District Attorney Pelletier is nominated, Mayor Fitzgerald at a noonday rally at the Mystic docks today called upon the District Attorney to make the situation so that after next Tuesday the Democratic party can present a united front against the enemy. He said:

"I wish to call to the attention of the voters the injustice of Mr. Pelletier's candidacy at this time. During the past week I have been in thirty cities and towns in this state, advocating the renomination of Governor Foss. I have worked from 7 o'clock at night until 4 o'clock in the morning. Hundreds of other Democratic speakers and workers have been engaged in similar manner. The energy and time given to this work should have been devoted to the campaign of Wilson and Marshall, and would have been had it not been for the fact that Mr. Pelletier injected himself into the contest. He is making Governor Foss fight for a third nomination, something which has been given to every Governor of Massachusetts who has served two terms.

"Governor Russell was nominated unanimously three times; Governor Crane was nominated unanimously three times; Governor Bates was nominated unanimously three times, although defeated for the third election; Governor Guild was nominated and elected three times; Governor Draper was nominated unanimously for a third term, but defeated at the polls. I leave it to the voters of the Commonwealth to determine for themselves the kind of a Democrat Mr. Pelletier is when he compels the whole working force of the Democracy to go from one end of the State to the other to refute the lying statements that he and his companions are making about the record of Governor Foss.

"Mr. Pelletier knows that Governor Foss was willing to get out of the harness this year, and so said, and that Mr. Walsh was urged by the Governor to become a candidate. Mr. Walsh was the logical man for successor to Governor Foss as the nominee of the party because of the work done by him the last ten or more years, during which time Mr. Pelletier has been strangely silent, his voice never having been heard in any part of the Commonwealth for any candidate except in a single instance last year when he made a speech in Webster and one in Southbridge the same night.

"It is conceded on every hand by thinking men that, if Governor Foss is nominated, Wilson and Marshall will carry the State.

"I appeal to Mr. Pelletier and his friends now that defeat is inevitable, to make the situation so that after Tuesday next we can all march together with a united front against the common enemy."

Referring to Governor Foss' work for industrial legislation, the mayor said:

"Let me refer to a typical case, reported in the morning newspapers, which may convince Mr. Pelletier and his backers that something is due him from them and from the Democratic party to Governor Foss for his employers' liability act.

"Yesterday morning a workman employed by the Boston Elevated Railway fell from a train at the State street station, and striking the third rail was instantly killed. His family dependent upon him would have been left without resources had it not been for that act. At once his wife begins to receive $10 a week from the company, under the workings of that act, and will receive it for 300 weeks, or until the amount is $3000.

"That one instance of what has come about through the efforts of Governor Foss should be enough to silence all opposition to his renomination in the Democratic party."

REQUESTING HER FRIENDS' SUPPORT

MAYOR ANSWERS FAVOR CHARGES

Mayor Fitzgerald today gave out a statement in town to District Attorney Pelletier's charge that favoritism was being shown the Foss leaders in the use of city ward rooms:

"In answer to Mr. Pelletier's charge that he is not having a fair show in the matter of wardrooms, I would say that this is not true. Take the Roxbury situation, for instance, where Mr. Joyce and Mr. Collins are contesting for the Senatorial nomination. Mr. Joyce came in the other day and insisted upon having the Vine Street Church Friday evening. Congressman Curley insisted upon having it Monday evening, and in view of the fact that both Ward 17 candidates favored Mr. Pelletier, it hardly seemed fair to me that they should have the wardroom on both of these desirable evenings. Nobody won Vine Street Church Saturday night.

"I told them I would give them the choice of either Friday or Monday night, giving Governor Foss' supporters the night they did not take. They refused. I then asked if they would permit me to go into the rally and speak for Governor Foss either Friday night or Monday night. This they both declined to do.

"The Hon. James H. Doyle came in yesterday morning with Mr. Joyce, and I told them that while I thought it was a great injustice to Governor Foss and his candidacy I would ask the superintendent of public buildings to give the wardroom to Mr. Joyce on Friday night and to Congressman Curley on Monday night.

"Mr. Maynard consulted me about the matter of wardrooms in other sections of the city. He tells me that he has been very fair in making a division of the wardrooms with Mr. Pelletier's manager. The Democratic city committee, Mr. Maynard tells me, had Faneuil Hall for a noon rally on Saturday, but they gave it up to Mr. Pelletier. I understand that the chairmen of the ward committees in other sections of the city have given way to Mr. Pelletier."

"HOPE I'LL SEE YOU IN WHITE HOUSE," TY COBB TELLS WILSON

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 20.—One of Governor Woodrow Wilson's visitors after he reached his hotel here was Tyrus Cobb, ball player extraordinary, with whom the Governor wanted to shake hands.

"I haven't seen you since we were together in Georgia, except that I have seen you play ball many times since then," said the Governor.

"Well, Governor, the next time I see you I hope it will be in the White House," replied Ty.

After which the Governor invited the ball player to lunch with him. The latter bashfully declined.

"The last time he saw me in Georgia I was on the stage. I'm glad he didn't refer to that," said Cobb with a grin as he left the hotel.

Opportunity Open for All to Capture That Big First Prize.

Didn't somebody write a song or a poem or something, once, about how sunshine and rain are mixed in every man's life?

Something like that, anyhow.

That is the way contestants are bound to find it in the competition for the $40,000 offered by the Sunday AMERICAN.

Take Mrs. John Winne, for instance, who lives with her husband, five children and a sister, Miss Anna Vying, in the Madison-Calvert apartments. Mrs. Winne has entered this voting contest determined to win the capital prize of $10,000 in cash. She means to buy a place just beyond the border of the town, a farm on the River road, with a roomy old house of Colonial design. And she is going to send Katherine and Jimmy to college and—you know all those things a wife and mother would do with $10,000. Just what you would do.

Struck Hard Sledding.

When Mrs. Winne decided to enter the contest—which opens formally on the coming Sunday, by the way—everybody in the family was enthusiastic. They met with wonderful success for a day or two. Then they struck an occasional bit of hard sledding, and some of the younger folks became discouraged.

But Mrs. Winne, determined on a home of her own, and knowing no surer way to get it than by willing 10,000 votes offered by the Sunday AMERICAN'S voting contest, knows that we have to take the good with the bad. "Just my motto," Mrs. Winne says.

And Mrs. Winne had an opportunity, only yesterday, to apply her philosophy to this contest.

In the early forenoon, when Jimmy and Katherine had left for school, and she was quite alone, Mrs. Winne had a caller. It was old Porter Gamsby, from the "port."

"Howell, down to our postoffice at the Fort," old Porter said, "was telling how that you were the town candidate in the Sunday AMERICAN contest, and 'Lizbeth said how that I must come in and subscribe for the paper, through you, for a year. I'm all ready to pay the deposit that shows the subscriber's 'good faith,' as the paper puts it, and we want you to win."

Mrs. Winne Grateful.

"Mr. Gamsby," said Mrs. Winne, "I'm sure I don't know how to thank you, but I'm sure I'm grateful to you, and I know it will please my husband to hear of your kindness."

"It's on account of that same husband that we are doing it," said the old gentleman. "We haven't forgotten, Lizbeth and I, that when our Harry went into the office, a green boy, it was Jack Winne who took him in hand, saw that the hazing was made as light as possible, and in every way acted like a big brother."

"Just like Jack," his wife said proudly. "And that ain't all," Porter Gamsby said, "when, after five or six years, that big chance came, to go to Omaha and take charge, and they offered it to Jack Winne, and he couldn't go, on your account and the children's school connections, and one thing and another, your husband put the chance in our boy's way and today Harry is climbing and climbing and climbing all because one big-hearted fellow had met him out on the broad highway we call life and pointed the way to him."

And old Porter was gone.

Within an hour, Mrs. Winne had another caller, Henrietta Mack, Jack Black. "Heard you were in some newspaper voting contest," Mrs. Black said.

"And you wanted to subscribe?" asked Mrs. Winne sweetly, "or perhaps promise me the coupons out of your daily and Sunday AMERICAN. You know the daily coupon is worth five and the Sunday ballot twenty-five votes."

"Such foolishness!" said her caller, "I certainly am surprised. You won't win it. You haven't got a chance in a million! And when you lose you'll be the laughing stock of the town. The idea! Ten thousand dollars! They'll never pay it if you win it. Do you suppose if they had ten thousand dollars they'd be printing a newspaper at all? What do you know about them? Seems to me if a man had ten thousand dollars he'd be in some better business than printing an old newspaper. What does your husband do with all the money he makes? Mis' Smithers said you wanted to buy a place out on the River road. Most unhealthy place in the whole county. Hannah Sprague died out there, and everybody said if she had lived on higher ground she wouldn't have passed away till she was ninety. Wasn't only seventy-seven."

And so this way Mrs. Black, as gloomy and forbidding as could be, rattled on for the better part of an hour.

"Thank goodness!" "Ha!" Winne said, when at last she was alone again, that Porter Gamsby got here first!"

The more she thought of Mrs. Black and her forebodings, the madder Mrs. Winne found herself becoming.

She got $0 mad, finally, that she went out with her chin set and her dander up, determined on bringing home at least three subscriptions to the Sunday paper.

And she brought them home.

If one can win $10,000 in a voting contest, one can well afford to "take the good with the bad," the kindly, encouraging friend with the acquaintance who never fails to paint her pictures in colors of gloom.

The Contest Editor says if we will not say again, as publicly as possible, that the contest opens in earnest on the coming Sunday and that all who wish to compete for the 1501 prizes, raised to $40,000, MUST fill out the Enrollment Blank to be found on another page.

The receipt of this Enrollment Ballot starts you in the race with 1,000 votes to your credit.

In addition to the first grand prize of $10,000 IN CASH there are five district prizes of $1,000 each.

This will be easy money for somebody. Don't YOU want it?

FOSS ASSAILED BY PELLETIER

District Attorney Pelletier criticised Governor Foss in regard to his appointments at noon rallies today at the General Electric Works in Lynn and later at the agricultural fair in Framingham. The District Attorney declared that the Governor never really intended to have Professor Droppers appointed a railroad commissioner to succeed Commissioner White.

The District Attorney said in part:

"Did Governor Foss battle with the Council in behalf of Professor Droppers' confirmation? No. His efforts to have the Council confirm Professor Droppers were most perfunctory.

"Now if Clinton White was not the proper man for railroad commissioner, why did Governor Foss suddenly cease his efforts to replace him with a man whom he believed would be? Don't you know? Let me tell you. Governor Foss never intended to interfere with Clinton White. At heart a railroad sympathizer, Governor Foss never intended to interfere with Clinton White, because the railroads of the State were thoroughly satisfied with Commissioner White.

"You have masqueraded long enough, Governor. Remove the mask of people's champion and show your own countenance —of heavy stockowner in railroads, mills and other public service corporations, and interested in the services of all."

District Attorney Pelletier will wind up this week's campaign with an open-air rally on Boston Common, preceded by a torchlight parade through the downtown streets.

He will make a whirlwind tour of every ward in the city before speaking on the Common.

GRANDDAUGHTER OF OROZCO APPEALS TO TAFT TO SAVE HIM

President Taft will find in his mail at Beverly in a few days a letter from Elena Orozco, the seven-year-old daughter of General Pascal Orozco, Jr., leader of the revolutionists in northern Mexico, and granddaughter of Pascal Orozco, Sr., now under arrest at Marfa, Tex. Los Angeles dispatches say she has written as follows:

"Dear Mr. President Taft: My papa is not a murderer. He is a brave soldier fighting for his country. Please don't let the American soldiers give my grandfather to Mr. Madero, for Mr. Madero would shoot him and that would just kill poor grandma."

Mrs. Orozco, mother of General Orozco, is seriously ill from nervous breakdown at the Orozco home at Los Angeles.

MORE GRAFT! CRAB APPLE ON GRAPEVINE

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—William H. Steckert, a former trustee of Hastings-on-Hudson, besides raising plentiful crops of Concord grapes on vines surrounding his Maple avenue residence, will also enjoy an abundant supply of a hybrid fruit resembling a crabapple, produced on the same vines with the grapes. The hybrid has a delicious taste, but how it became grafted upon his grape vines is a mystery to Mr. Steckert. The two fruits have no relation whatever.

DON'T MIND THE WEATHER! THINK OF YOUR CLOTHES!

Some folks spend so much time worrying about the weather that they forget to think of their clothes.

Don't mind the weather. It will take care of itself. But your clothes require some thought on your part. We offer a suggestion.

Suppose you come over to our shop and see the kind of clothes we make.

We will show you the cloth, the linings—some suits on the way through the shop—the inside as well as the outside of some of our suits and overcoats.

Then you can decide to order a suit or not—just as you see fit.

If we build you a suit, we guarantee it to be correct in style, wear, fit and workmanship.

A guarantee from Gale & Kent means more than the guarantee from any firm in Boston in our line.

The price will be from $15 to $25, depending entirely upon the cloth you select for your suit (or overcoat). All work is the best we can give you.

FINGER PRINT IN WILL CASE

At the former trial many of the strongest witnesses for the Dakotan were cut off because through some strange error in connection with the handling of his side of the battle he was not allowed to call them. All these witnesses will be present at his hearing and many new ones. They have offered to appear without pay, some of them coming from Wisconsin and other places in the West, defraying their own expenses.

I was not at the trial before Judge Lawton, but reporters who were there say that Dakota Dan makes a much stronger, clearer witness at this hearing than he did then. He looks better physically, although at the other trial he had plenty of money and now he is practically penniless. His complexion is clear and his eyes bright. Dressed in a rather long black cutaway coat, he is the most distinguished looking man usually in the court room.

The Dakotan is slow of speech unless angered and when he loses his temper his words tumble out in bunches. As he expressed it himself, it is hard for him to think and talk at the same time.

One man who has never been a witness in the case, but who knew the late Senator Russell well, traveling to and fro with him between Melrose and Boston, said to me today as he gazed at Dakota Dan:

"I could pick that man out any place, because of his remarkable resemblance to his father."

Fresno Remains Calm.

Fresno Dan, his face brown and seamed as though baked by the sun, manifests no particular concern regarding the course of the trial. He is frank, good natured and talks freely in a low, soft voice—a voice markedly different from that of William C. Russell or Dakota Dan. His attitude in the whole matter would probably be correctly expressed in this wise:

"A-w-w, what's the use! The lawyers will get all the money."

Dakota Dan, wearing a red flower in the lapel of his coat, raced from a car to the court house today with William C. Russell. The elder Russell was a few feet ahead of Dakota Dan and many saw the two men, the gray-bearded man increasing his pace almost to a run apparently to keep ahead of the big Dakotan.

Wants Photograph of Check.

Dakota Dan was called to the stand, but before any questions were put to him, Mr. Scharton stated that he wanted to photograph what appeared to be a thumb or finger-print on exhibit No. 64, a check supposed to have been written by Daniel Blake Russell.

"I want to find out," said Scharton, "whether this is a genuine check or has been put in to trap my client. I don't want to take any chances. I want to see, if I can, whether any marks have been made on this check by Fresno Dan, Mr. Almy or any other person."

"The mark is not a fresh one, is it?" asked Master Pevey.

Mr. Nason looked at the mark on the exhibit and remarked that it looked like "rainfall of ink."

"Well, you may call it that if you like," said Scharton.

"I see no objection to it being photographed," remarked Mr. Pevey.

It was arranged to have this done later in the day. Mr. Scharton then announced that he had agreed with Mr. Nason to call George L. Harrington a Melrose man, later in the day, as Mr. Harrington desired to go West. Harrington is expected to swear that the Dakotan is Daniel Blake Russell.

Fresno Dan was not in court when the session began today, neither was he present yesterday afternoon, he limiting his stay after his return from the West to part of yesterday's forenoon session.

Father Ran for Senate.

The Dakotan was again asked whether he wrote certain checks which were shown to him and which were exhibits at the last trial. Most of these exhibits were practice checks written in connection with the Comer Commercial School.

"Did anything happen that you can recall while you were at Comer's Commercial College?" asked Mr. Nason.

"My father ran for the Senate about that time."

"Did you take a regular course at the school?"

"No—no regular course; when I wanted to make figures I did so; when I wanted to write I did so; when I wanted to remain away from the school I did so."

Dakota Dan said that he and John N. Jones, who worked in the Russell Fortilizer Company's office, often practiced writing checks.

Dakota Causes Laugh.

"Some of these old checks were carried to our office and some taken home," testified Dakota Dan. "These old checks laid around the home in Melrose and were there when I left home, but I don't recall much about the teachers. I don't think I ever knew the names of any of the teachers."

"How many teachers were there?"

"Three men, supposed to be teachers."

"Can you describe them?"

"The one taught me most was slender and got very tall. He wore heavy glasses. His hair was not very heavy."

The witness sat and gazed at Mr. Nason's head. His hair is not particularly heavy. The audience, following the witness closely, looked toward Mr. Nason and burst out laughing. Mr. Pevey requested the audience to remember that they were in a court room.

Dakota Dan's attitude toward all of the exhibits was about the same. He did not swear that he wrote any of them, but sometimes would say, "That looks like my writing. It is like way I wrote them. It may be an imitation."

"Were you in court when Mr. Comer testified at the last trial about the kind of pen used at his school?"

"I don't remember. I was in and out at that time. I don't know whether I was in court or at the home of Mrs. Coombs."

Mrs. Coombs is a staunch friend of Dakota Dan. During the last trial the Dakotan spent a good deal of time at her home.

Test Dakota's Writing.

At the request of Mr. Nason, Dakota Dan left the witness stand, sat at a table in the corner of the room and wrote some checks. Mr. Nason reading from the exhibits. The object was to compare the Comer College checks with the freshly written ones.

The hand of the witness is not as steady now as it was when he was a boy. A good deal of his time since he left home, as explained on the witness stand, was put in shooting rantankerous mustangs in the Northwest. Such exercise is not conducive to a high grade of penmanship. But the Dakotan tackled the job jestfully, and a court crowded with people, many of them standing, smiled their approval.

Many new faces were seen in the court-room framed among the familiar ones today. Some of the new attendants were young girls. Some were aged women. In the front row were three men with white hairs who, looked as though they had been New England business men back in the days when Daniel Blake Russell was a boy.

Fresno Dan walked into the courtroom at 11:20. He slid through the crowd and into a seat to the left of William C. Russell. Some of those in the room apparently had never seen him. They rose to their feet and craned their heads in his direction.

A dozen women, flashed on him eyes of suspicion with their looks curled in sarcastic smiles. But Fresno Dan was either oblivious of this or it failed to disconcert him.

Just From New Hampshire.

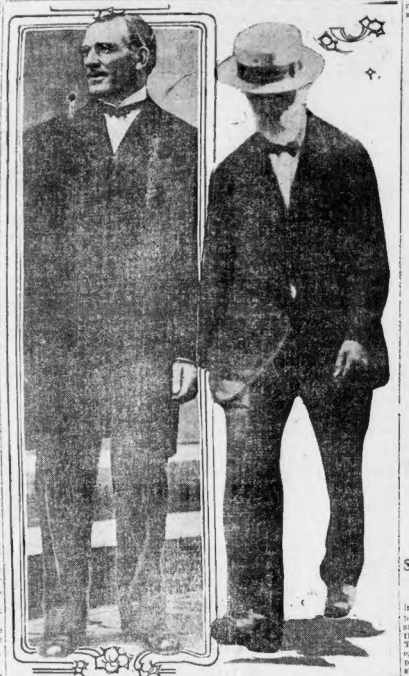
Scharton discovered a water-mark in exhibit No. 73, a note supposed to have been written by Daniel Blake Russell, and he asked that this, too, be photographed so that the paper might be traced if possible.

An aged man with white hair and long, gray beard created a sensation at recess by walking over and speaking to Fresno Dan. This be the first time that such a thing has happened at this hearing. It turned out that the gray stranger is from New Hampshire, but he does not know either of the claimants.

ODD CONTRASTS IN RUSSELL CASE FIGURES

An unusual study in queer contrasts is found in the appearance of William C. Russell, the holder, and Dakota Dan, the claimant to the half million dollar estate said to have been left by the elder Russell. Daniel Blake Russell, practically penniless and fighting for wealth and birthright—dependent on his friends for means to carry on his fight—is dressed well in the latest fashion and looks like a prosperous business man.

William C. Russell, slouching and rather care-worn, gray and old looking, in threadbare clothes and old straw hat, with shoes that show much sign of wear—hardly looks like the more fortunate son who stayed at home and inherited the estate. If appearance count for anything the average man would mistake the claimant for the owner of the estate and the owner for the poverty-stricken claimant.



FRESNO SAYS ESTATE SHRINKS

by Attorney Robert Nason of counsel for the Russell estate. Today was the third birthday of the famous case. The first hearing in the case was given in the Probate Court, September 20, 1909.

Statement by Fresno Dan.

Fresno Dan's statement, one of the most remarkable made since the Russell case started, is as follows:

I'd have been here sooner but I had to wait till they sent me a hundred dollars. Maybe I could have got a thousand—but anyhow, they sent me a hundred.

I spent half of it on the way here. I saw the sights in Chicago.

I've been having a little vacation, saw some cousins in the West. They think the people in Massachusetts are a lot of—thieves.

I just took it easy. Didn't go around much. Pretty warm and, if I'd have gone around too much I'd have sweated. So I took it easy.

I'm getting sick of this thing—in fact, everybody is but the lawyers.

They say I'm a moving picture fiend. That's right, too.

But out of ten dollars a week occasionally I take five or ten cents to see a moving picture show. How can I take any more and live?

When they found me and told me about this fortune I commenced to have visions about traveling through Europe and going all over the world and seeing the sights—and I came here and my share is ten dollars a week.

I didn't think I could live on that, but Brother Willie, why he thought that was enough for me. He doesn't spend that much a week, and he thought I ought to live on $10.

That home in Melrose is very fine, but not for me. That's a hermit's retreat out there. I don't like that kind of life.

People say I ought to get more than ten dollars a week. But when this started in I thought it would be over and the estate settled and when they found I was the real Daniel Blake Russell they would do the right thing by me.

But it looks now like I would not get anything—and did you know that home is mortgaged—that property on Tremont street is mortgaged—and all these bills—why, there won't be much left, only the home in Melrose.

SHOWER OF SNAILS FALLS ON STREET

WASHINGTON, N. J., Sept. 20.—During a drizzling rain millions of snails, both hard and soft shelled, fell on the streets. The snails ranged in size from that of bird shot to double BB shot. The Belvidere avenue district was literally filled with the snails, and it was practically impossible to walk on the streets.

CRISPIN MODEL

Men buy a certain shoe year after year because it wears.

For 20 years Regals have created, and to an extent dominated, the shoe styles of New York and London. It seems unnecessary to protest strongly that Regal designs are correct.

But shoes are not mere ornaments. You should think of solid Regal shoe making—of the heavy linen thread holding upper and sole together, of the old-fashioned oak-tanned soles cut from the finest South American butts; of the close-grained, pliable uppers.

When your foot slips into this CRISPIN MODEL and you are impressed by its elegance—its flat "English" lines—remember that it is not only a custom shoe in appearance, but it is custom in every detail of material, finish and shoe making.

FRITZI SCHEFF NOT TO SEEK DIVORCE

BALTIMORE, Sept. 20.—Fritzi Scheff, who is playing here in "The Love Wager," today declared that she and her husband, John Fox, Jr., are happy and denied a report that she will shortly be sued for divorce by the author. She said: "It is the usual attempt of some irresponsible person to discredit a reputable actress. I shall not be sued by my husband for divorce and my intimate friends know this to be true."

HAMBURG LINE TO COME HERE

unless granting permission to extend their piers 100 feet. The new steamer, the largest in the line, is too long for the present piers in Hoboken. They must be extended to protect the great ships stern as she lies at the dock from the constant stream of passing traffic.

Two Years' Campaign.

The negotiations to bring the Hamburg-American line to Boston have been in progress for two years. They were inaugurated in a great measure by Henry Howard of the Chamber of Commerce. The New Haven railroad, under President Mellen, has had the matter in hand at one time the negotiations for the coming of a passenger steamship were so nearly closed that the company's agents in represented a big circular letter to the end that he expected to complete the arrangements within the week.

The pier was for the New Haven to provide docking facilities and a special five or four and a half hour boat train from New York. Then the New Haven was ready to go. Then by the death of Mr. Mellen, American representative of the line at that time the plan was halted. Shortly after the Commonwealth Docks, where the big steamers would tie up, came under the control of the Harbor Board, and General Rolfe took up the negotiations.

The present status of the plan, according to Bancroft, is this. The line is practically sure to come in 1914, and the formal vote of the directors will ratify the matter. But indications are that the project of late 1913, may be changed and the steamers coming advanced to 1913.

Boston Piers Longer.

The New York situation which has forced the line to contemplate shifting to Boston is this: The channel between the Hoboken docks and Manhattan Island is at present 1,000 feet wide. On each side are piers 800 feet long. Any lengthening of the piers is objected to because of the consequent congestion of the heavy traffic along the docks.

But at the Hamburg-American docks are in docks in and the line has been unable to secure a pier in Manhattan Island.

It would practically as cheap for the line to come to Boston as for it to cross the river to the east. And it is this fact which has made Boston seriously considered.

The Commonwealth Docks in South Boston are 1,200 feet long, 400 feet longer than those in New York. Boston could accommodate with ease the largest vessels now afloat.

WOMAN LOSES HER $18,000 NECKLACE IN TRIP FROM BOSTON

Mrs. Arthur A. Sprague, Jr., lost a pearl necklace valued at $18,000 while traveling by train from Boston to Chicago, according to reports today from the Western city.

The necklace was made up of fifty-nine pearls and was the pride of Mrs. Sprague's heart. So much did she think of it that she always carried it with her in the little chamois bag.

When she reported the matter to the Chicago police she declared she had not the slightest idea how the necklace could have become lost. She believes she dropped it and someone on the train kept it.

Car of Dynamite Off Rails but Picks a Soft, Sandy Spot

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 20.—A switching crew accidentally derailed a car of dynamite at Jewett's, ten miles east of here today.

The car settled gently on its side after leaving the rails, picking out a soft sandy spot on which to land.

Meanwhile the horrified switching crew was running desperately and waiting for what was expected to be the most terrific explosion since the dawn of creation.

When they realized the dynamite had not exploded the switching crew notified the local yard, which called on the wrecking crew at Rochester to pull the car back on the rails.

The wreckers came down from Rochester, passed at the prostrate car and asked quality: "What's she loaded with?"

"Dynamite," replied the switchers.

"Well, then," said the boss wrecker, "you fellows can just unload every stick of that dynamite and take it far away from here. We aren't pulling any ton of dynamite in a rail car. One slight slip and we would die all over Hocking-haus County."

"She didn't blow up when she went off the rails," said the switchers.

"Never mind," said the boss wrecker, "just unload her first. We may be crazy, but we ain't no fools."

So they unloaded the dynamite, put it on another car and pulled it away, after which the wreckers yanked the empty car back on the track.

DON'T PULL OUT THE GRAY HAIRS; A SIMPLE REMEDY RESTORES COLOR

"Pull out one gray hair and a dozen will take its place" is an old saying, which is, to a great extent, true, if no steps are taken to stop the cause. When gray hairs appear it is a sign that Nature needs assistance. It is Nature's call for help. Gray hair, dull, lifeless hair, or hair that is falling out, is not necessarily a sign of advancing age, for there are thousands of elderly people with perfect heads of hair without a single streak of gray.

When gray hairs come or when the hair seems to be lifeless or dead, some good, reliable hair-restoring treatment should be resorted to at once. Specialists say that one of the best preparations to use is the old-fashioned "sage tea" which our grandparents used. The best preparation of this kind is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of domestic sage and sulphur [illegible] compounded with other [illegible] combined and strengthened, which is Nature being carefully followed and [illegible] by experts.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is clean and wholesome and perfectly harmless. It [illegible] restored hair removes dandruff, and [illegible] restores faded or gray hair to [illegible] natural color.

Don't [illegible] another minute. Start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur at once and see what a difference a few days' treatment will make in your hair.

POLITICAL NEWS FIELD REVIEWED

Roxbury and the South End are in the throes of a political revolution this night. The spellbinders are whooping things up in grand style. Automobiles, pedlers' wagons, auto trucks, soap boxes and porches of houses are the platforms from which the candidates preach their doctrine. The police have their hands full in quieting quesians among the followers of each candidate. Red fire plays a prominent part in attracting the attention of the crowds.

There's a red hot fight on for the House nominations on the Democratic end in Ward 9. Representative Joseph Leonard, former Representative Frank Donnelly and Little Johnny Shea are all among the favorites if I may say a few terms.

Representative Martin J. White of Ward 12 is supporting Edward A. Taylor for the Democratic House nomination in that district. He is also supporting Fred Jewett for the Senate, and expects to wrest control of the ward from former Senator James H. Dunn.

Ward 10 is [illegible] Representative Michael Sullivan is [illegible] for renomination for the House. So is Ernest Rupert, representative Abram [illegible] Martin and John [illegible] are in a neck to neck race in Senatorial district. Senator Timothy [illegible] Democratic, is opposed by Republican Frederick [illegible] and Socialist Charles [illegible]. Both parties will have primary day.

Margaret Foley, who has campaigned for the Suffrage party [illegible] pledges from Peter F. Donovan and William F. Hayes, Democratic candidates, favoring the question of equal suffrage to a referendum vote in the state. The candidates took the pledges before their audiences as a ratification of Democratic party.

At the request of the Democratic National Committee, Chairman Thomas D. Riley of the state committee has transferred from Governor Wilson's campaign for next Thursday from New Bedford to Fall River. In Boston Governor Wilson will speak at Fremont Temple instead of at Faneuil Hall.

Governor Hiram Johnson of California's campaign tour in Boston and Worcester next Tuesday and the Progressive leaders have made elaborate plans to welcome him in both places.

Mayor Fitzgerald spoke at rallies in Malden, East Boston and Charlestown last night in support of the candidacy of Governor Foss for renomination. "Governor Foss' record," said the Mayor, "stamp him as the most progressive labor Governor Massachusetts has ever seen."

Returning from his tour of the western part of the State, Colonel Everett C. Benton expressed himself as confident of carrying that section in his fight for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

"If anyone thinks the Republican State committee is not giving Taft its loyal support, he is badly mistaken," declared Chairman Hatfield in a statement issued last night. "We aren't working with a brass band or in a circus ring, but we're getting the results," he added.

The following rallies in the interests of Governor Foss, at which Mayor Fitzgerald will make the principal speeches, are scheduled for tonight: Ruddy Hall, Ward 25, Brighton, Ward 22 Democratic Club, Needham Hall, Jefferson Club House, Ward 6; old Franklin School, Washington street, near Dover, Ward 9; Maynard Hall, Ward 13; Meeting House Hill ward room, Ward 20; Minton Hall, Ward 23. A second rally will be held at Mystic Wharf, Charlestown, and open-air rallies will be held at night in Wards 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19 and 22.

District Attorney Pelletier will wind up the week of campaigning Saturday night with a big rally on the Common. The rally will be preceded by an old-fashioned torchlight parade, with brass bands and all the accessories.

The Massachusetts Legislative Committee of the Progressive Party has voted to nominate Progressive candidates in every senatorial and representative district in the State.

Newport Belles Turn to Use of Foils

SOCIETY'S FENCING INSTRUCTOR AND EXPERT PUPIL.

Smartest Women in Cottage Colony Becoming Adept at Rapier Play.

NEWPORT, Sept. 20.—The smartest women in the cottage colony have turned to fencing for two reasons.

One is that the use of the foils tends to make the figure fashionably slim.

The other is that the same exercise displays a trim figure to advantage.

Those who have neat outlines know that they look well in rapier play and those who are not so fortunate hope, by assiduous fencing, to obtain that sylph like form which is the requisite of the fashionable belle.

Among those society fencers Mrs. Benjamin Thaw is considered one of the most expert as well as one of the best appearing. Also her daughter is a graceful adept.

This is an authority no less than that of Mrs. Eleanor Baldwin Cass of Boston, New York and London [illegible] fencing to society and the nobility.

"I know of no woman in Newport society," says Mrs. Cass, "so graceful and of such fine figure as has Mrs. Benjamin Thaw. Her daughter, Miss Thaw, is also very clever at fencing."

Among other leaders in the smartest set, who are practicing diligently with the foils are Miss Margaret Andrews, Miss Rose Grosvenor, Miss Eggesie May Ladenburg, Miss Sadie Jones, Miss Katherine Lawrence, Mrs. Ogden Goelet, Mrs. French Vanderbilt, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Mrs. Richard T. Wilson.

Speaking of finely formed society women, Mrs. Cass thinks that Mrs. Marsden J. Perry, Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs, Mrs. French Vanderbilt, Mrs. Francis Burke-Roche, Mrs. William Woodward and Mrs. Austin L. Sands are among the best favored.

"Newport society women are the best dressed and the best looking in all the world," said Mrs. Cass.

She is in a position to judge competently because she is a fencing instructor for the Maytair and Belgravia sets in London, as well as for Newport and Fifth avenue and Commonwealth avenue.

She will cross the water in mid-winter to resume her London classes. She has taught there such prominent women as the Duchess of Marlborough, the Duchess of Manchester and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid.

COLLEGES OPEN FOR WORK TODAY

Lectures begin today in Boston University, Tufts, Jackson, Simmons, Smith, Dartmouth, Amherst and Vermont colleges, which opened yesterday for the term of 1912-1913.

Boston University reported a record registration Dr. Murlin presided at exercises in Jacob Sleeper Hall.

At Tufts there are several faculty changes. The annual posters with rules for freshmen, placarded about the campus, are signed this year, not by the sophomores, but by the student body. This marks the end of hazing at Tufts.

At Simmons class work began yesterday. This is the college's eleventh year. Although two new dormitories have been added, all accommodations are crowded to capacity with students.

At Mt. Holyoke, President Woolley announced gifts totalling about $100,000.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRIGON.

The contest board of the American Automobile Association announces that the reports from Milwaukee that Joe Dawson, winner of the 500-mile race at Indianapolis, had been reinstated and would compete in the races out there were untrue. Dawson was suspended for driving an exhibition race at Memphis without sanction, and at present there are no indications as to when he will be put back in good standing.

George Crittendon, of the Lozier sales force, will pilot a privately owned six-cylinder roaster in the races at Rockingham Park on October 12. Harry Grant, in all probability, will appear at the wheel of a Stutz. M. F. Chase, who is the distributor of this line in New England, will endeavor to bring the Stutz cars that start in the Vanderbilt Cup race tomorrow to Rockingham. John Lecain, who won notable victories at Rockingham and Old Orchard in the Stutz, is now in Milwaukee to witness the races and incidentally make arrangements for the shipment of the racing cars here.

C. A. Gilmore and F. A. Sullivan of the Boston office of the White Company, left for Cleveland with a party of about fifteen selling agents for the White Company in a special car attached to the "Wolverine" on Wednesday. The party will inspect the mammoth plant of this company and see for themselves the materials, the machinery and the methods employed to produce the rapidly increasing number of White gasoline cars and trucks.

MRS. ASTOR TAKES YOUNG SON FOR COUNTRY VISIT

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Mrs. Madeleine Force Astor and her young son, John Jacob Astor, have left the Astor home at No 940 Fifth avenue for a month's sojourn in the country.

Mrs. Astor went directly to Bernardsville, N. J., where her mother, Mrs. W. H. Force, has a house. After a short night's visit with her mother, Mrs. Astor will go to Lenox for two weeks, where she will be joined by Mrs. John B. Thayer of Haverford and Mrs. George D. Widener of Philadelphia.

To a reporter who asked for a photograph of the baby, Mrs. Astor said: "There has been no picture taken of the baby, and I do not expect to have any made for several weeks. Possibly upon my return from Lenox I shall have some taken but not before then."

BRYAN ATTACK RENEWED BY T. R.

HOLDREDGE, Neb., Sept. 20.—Colonel Roosevelt renewed his attack on William J. Bryan today in his invasion of Nebraska. At Denver last night the ex President declared Mr. Bryan was trying to give a misleading impression about E. H. Harriman's White House visit in 1904, and he returned to the attack today.

"I have nothing to conceal about Mr. Harriman's visit," said the Colonel here. "Mr. Bryan insinuates that Mr. Harriman came to see me because I wanted him to contribute to the campaign fund. Now if I had wanted that I would not have written to him that what I wanted to see him about could wait just as well until after election. If it was money I wanted for the campaign I would have written that I wished to see him before election.

Prominent Men to Address Fans

Interest in Big Mass Meeting

will be there. A band will furnish music. And the AMERICAN tomorrow will give you other surprises.

Prominent Fans Speak.

Among the speakers who will be on the stage during are

SAMUEL J. ELDER
W. T. A. FITZGERALD
JAMES A. GALLIVAN
FRANCIS M. CARROLL.
ARTHUR DOLAN.
SHERIFF JOHN QUINN
DR. JOSEPH SANTOSUOSSO.
MAX MITCHELL.
SENATOR JAMES F. POWERS
CHARLES F. DOLAN.
HARRY MORRISS.

Remember, every one of these men will be on the stage. They are all ardent baseball fans and have helped the Red Sox to bring home the bacon. The AMERICAN has extended to them an invitation to speak. The speeches will probably be limited to three minutes, but remember, a man can say a great deal in three minutes.

Mr. Elder, the lawyer and baseball fan, needs no introduction to an American audience. He represented Uncle Sam on at the last Hague conference. So cleverly did he represent the U. S. A. that all Europe sounded his praises. Mr. Elder will give you a little talk Sunday afternoon. He will also give you one of those characteristic little talks that is always good. It will be witty, full of ginger and make you think. Mr. Elder believes the Red Sox will win the World's Series. He is going to do his part to make them win. You will miss a great treat if you fail to go to the mass meeting.

Lawyers, bankers, business men, and, in fact, everybody will be there. The AMERICAN has spared nothing in order that this mass meeting will be a success.

"Nothing Too Good for Sox."

Remember the date—Sunday next. Remember the time—8 p. m. Max Mitchell, vice-president of the Cosmopolitan Trust Company, and an ardent fan, will be one of the speakers.

"I shall certainly be there," he says. "The Red Sox must win the World's Series. There is nothing too good for them." That is the sentiment expressed by Mr. Mitchell.

W. T. A. Fitzgerald, register of deeds for Suffolk County; Arthur Dolan, register of probate, and Sheriff John Quinn will also be there.

Another speaker is Francis M. Carroll, the young Boston attorney who presided at the big rally last spring in the interest of Woodrow Wilson, nominee for the presidency. Mr. Carroll will have something of importance to say to the fans who gather in the big theatre. He believes that the mass meeting has a two-fold significance. He says:

"It is the duty of every citizen of Boston to be present at the mass meeting in order to formulate plans for the reception that must and will be given to the returning warriors of the diamond. Secondly, it is a big thing for Boston. It will show the youth of this great city that we appreciate the efforts of every man from Boston in whatever field of endeavor he may happen.

James A. Gallivan, that ardent fan from South Boston who believes the Red Sox are infallible, will have bright remarks to make.

You will not be able to appreciate just what this great mass meeting means unless you are here. Dave Morriss, manager of Keith's Hotel, says no one will be capable of leaving him, not even Charles T. Gallagher, the lawyer, and Thomas W. Lawson will not be present but both will put in appearance in the big crowd on Monday. Mr. Lawson has an important business engagement in New York. This is what he says:

"I hope the loyal rooters for the Red Sox will get together on Sunday and make plans to give the returning heroes a grand reception. I am with them in heart and will be here on Monday to do my share."

Get on the Band Wagon.

All of those who have promised to be present at the mass meeting on Sunday say that in their opinion the Red Sox, after a return to this city as champions, should be escorted to the American League ball club by a big parade headed by a band. From all over New England the AMERICAN has been receiving letters which offer suggestions. Here is a letter which is typical. It comes from 1 Harrison avenue. It typifies the prevailing sentiment among the fans. Editor AMERICAN:

Seeing that there is a parade on the return of the Red Sox champions, our fife, drum and bugle corps would volunteer if wanted.

WILLIAM O'BRIEN.

Another letter of equal importance was received from the Nelle Motor Vehicle company. It reads:

Editor AMERICAN:

We believe that the conquering Red Sox should be given a splendid welcome when they return to Boston and we think the suggestion made by the AMERICAN to have a large parade in honor of the team is a fine one.

The Nelle Motor Vehicle company will be very pleased to supply the motor cars for the procession, in which all the members of the team may ride. We will be glad to receive any suggestions from you in regard to this matter, and to co-operate with you in every way towards making the welcome a big success.

Very truly yours,

NELLE MOTOR VEHICLE CO.
HAROLD D. ROBINSON.

This only illustrates the great interest Boston men are manifesting in the return of the Red Sox. It is up to everybody to manifest the same spirit. The fans, how ever are to decide upon the nature of the reception that they will give the boys who have placed Boston on the pinnacle of baseby ball. The men voted on Sunday he will decide upon the nature of the reception.

And remember tomorrow the AMERICAN has other surprises for you. Get on the band wagon and do your part. That is the slogan.

JAKE.

By REV. A. A. STOCKDALE.

Now who's the hero of the fray?
The name that every man will say,
Is Jake; Our gamin Jake.
There's Wagner, Wood and Yerkes and Hall,
Speaker, Hooper, Lewis, Ball,
Cady, Gardner, Engle, all,
No matter who you take
They play the game with class and style
But he who leads them all the while,
Is Baseball-Wizard, JAKE.

Who keeps the boys all feeling fine?
Whose smile is like the bright sunshine?
It's Jake! Our genial Jake.
For him the boys are bound to play
The best that's in them every day,
He keeps them feeling just that way
His honor is at stake
'Tis well to cheer the Red Sox Name,
And keep in mind, behind the fame
Is Fenway-Idol, JAKE.

Who keeps the sport so clean and fair,
That we can take our ladies there?
It's Jake! Our genial Jake.
For manly play and keen contest
For strength and skill, and all that's best,
His records will to all attest,
For work's the test to take
You have a right to cheer till hoarse
In Boston, if you cheer, of course
For Pennant-Winner, JAKE.

But greater fame is yet to come
With Jake! Our genial Jake:
For soon the cards of all the land
Will centre on the battle grand,
When team 'gainst team will take the stand,
And all the records shake.
Who then will shine with blazing light
And take the Series? Let The right,
It's GIANT-KILLER, JAKE.

Sacramento After Devlin to Manage

Arthur Devlin, the star third sacker of the Pilgrims, is the latest mentioned for a managerial berth. The Sacramento team of the Pacific Coast League is anxious to sign Devlin for manager, and they want him to go to California immediately. Devlin said that he would like nothing better, but that he would not consider the proposition this season, as he had already made arrangements for the next two months.

"HOME RUN" BAKER ILL.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20. — Frank Baker, third baseman of the Philadelphia American League team, is ill with tonsilitis and was unable to play in the game with Chicago. He was sent home today and probably will be out of the game for a week or ten days.

KILBANE BEATS O'KEEFE.

STAHL AUTO FUND GROWS

With a contribution of $25, one loyal "fan" led off the Jake Stahl automobile fund today and started the ball rolling. This particular fan was a man who loves baseball, but out of print. Following is the contribution of Jacob's admirer:

Sporting Editor Boston American:

I am enclosing $25 for the Jake Stahl automobile fund. It strikes me that it is a splendid idea to have a first class Boston baseball player given a machine as a token of appreciation for the services they have rendered to baseball. Those who have not seen Jake Stahl play the ball game have missed a good deal of the joy of baseball. Jake is the type of baseball player that will be almost unanimously admired by the baseball fans wherever he plays.

"Red Sox Win!"

You know how different it makes you feel when you go home to dinner with that cry ringing in your ears than if you had been told that the Red Sox lost.

How'd You Like to Lose?

Second—It makes you feel good to see the other fellows envious of your team. If you are a Red Sox fan you are proud of it, and if you are not a fan you envy those who are.

Third—Boston as a baseball city is entitled to a little pleasant fuss and feathers to equal that of any other city in the country.

Boston is the baseball city of the world—the people of Boston and its citizens have shown that they are willing to spend their money by the hundreds of dollars and gladly. Well prove it.

FOURTH—You ought to be proud of your own city and your baseball team—both the best in the land.

Sincerely,
Jake Stahl did it.

Do you need it? Yes. Now, come on, boys, and help fund a whom. Be a good fellow and help your Boston representatives to victory.

A BOSTON ROOTER.

P. S.—I'm one who feels good, and is very glad to have done a part for Boston and the Red Sox. Boston must have a winning ball team. You can't keep a losing team in a city like Boston. It appears as though they have. You can't keep a losing team in a city like Boston and have a good baseball club. If you're a good fellow send, when it is complete and ready for action to the field.

All letters are good as welcome as flowers. They all—There are more than enough people in Boston and the field to make a handsome present to Jake Stahl. Let this fund start be completed in a few days. You fellows who think you can't afford to give much—just send what you can afford, and then along and now I see a good you'll feel when Jake gets his auto.

Mayor Sends Check for $25.

Everybody in New England is interested in the Red Sox and Jake Stahl. Mayor Fitzgerald, besides offering his services to make the Red Sox welcome home, in big crowds, sent a check for $25 to help boom the fund by buy Jake Stahl an automobile. The Mayor inclosed the following note:

Sporting Editor Boston AMERICAN.
Dear sir:

I am sending you enclosed check for twenty-five dollars toward the purchase of an automobile for Jake Stahl. Jake Stahl could not be with any more after the baseball season, and his Boston friends should make it easy for him to ride. The winning of the world's championship by the Boston team should not only be a matter of pride to Boston citizens, but as a business proposition it is worth a good deal to the city. The World's Series will bring thousands of dollars into the city, and Boston will be known throughout the world once more as the city that gives the best there is in baseball. Push it along.

Very sincerely,

STARS AT A. A. U. CHAMPION MEET

By MONTY.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 20.—Many of the great contests of the Olympic games will be fought all over again in this city today and tomorrow in the annual A. A. U. national championships. Practically all the men who bore the Stars and Stripes to triumph at Stockholm will be in the lists to battle for the supreme honors of their own country, which they helped land at the forefront over the cracks of the rest of the world.

It is to be regretted that one of the mightiest of them all—Ralph Craig, the Michigander who won both the 100 and 200-metre dashes at the Olympics—has not sent in his name to the committee in charge of the entries.

A perusal of the array shows about every other Olympic star nominated for honors.

Meredith, Sheppard, Lippincott, Davenport, Kelly, Meyer, McGrath, Gutterson, Richards—take them from the beginning and keep on going to the end—the Adams boys, Reidpath, Babcock, Hoeltje, Rose, McDonald, Strobino, Tewanima, Wright, Wendell, Mercer, Schlofferer, Kivlat the nomadermal Thorpe—almost every point winner in the classic will be on the job to defend the laurels won across the waters.

Look for Many Upsets.

There are bound to be a number of upsets of form. In fact, it looks as if a good many of the Olympic winners will suffer the loss of their supreme position in the "champs." The hurdles, middle distance races and jumps look like sure reversals, with the weight events appearing the only ones with the odds in favor of their running true to the dope.

One of the greatest fights of all will be waged in the half mile run, where the veteran Mel Sheppard, of the Irish Americans of New York copes again with his youthful Olympic conqueror Ted Meredith, of Mercersburg. Meredith has been doing good running in minor races since the Stockholm games, but nothing like the kind exhibited by Sheppard. The latter has been within a couple of seconds of record time on several occasions and not once has he gone as slow as two minutes even.

To make a world's record in a race the half a man first has, of course, to be of record caliber.

But that does not mean he can break the record every day. Far from it. Such a man may approach it, dig it and mark and yet never quite reach it. He has to be lucky enough to strike that lucky one-in-a-hundred-type that no man can exactly explain. Sheppard, running at least three seconds faster consistently than Meredith records, seems more likely to experience such a streak of form, and if he does he may wipe Meredith's new record off the boards.

Hurdle Mark May Go

The high hurdle event is another that looms up as a fumbler of Olympic results. John P. Nicholson, the Missouri University thunder bolter, is expected by many to defeat Fred Kelly, of Los Angeles, the Olympic victor. Nicholson before the Stockholm final, who entered the close of the bunch. He got to a poor start, but caught up to within two feet of the leader at the next to last hurdle. At that point he was going much speedier than any other man when he fell in his overanxiety and, of course, was shut out.

Wendell, the Massachusetts youngster, also may make them all go in this event, and Jack Eby, of the Irish-American A. C., must not be forgotten. The last named seems a certain conqueror in the 220-yard low hurdle event.

A Song of Pabst "Blue Ribbon" Beer

Raised a glass to her ripe, rosy lips,—
And honeybee-like, on a hollyhock spike,—
She daintily sips and sips:
"I drink to your health, to joy and to wealth,
To years of delight and of cheer;
And to this I drink,—bid your glasses to clink,—
To PABST FAMOUS 'BLUE RIBBON' BEER."

"As water that springs from the hillside and sings,
And laughs its way down to the glade,—
Just as pure this beer, so drink without fear,
For 't is best the world ever made.
'T is science, and art, 't is conscience, the heart,
With nothing to shun nor to fear,—
Drink once more to my toast, the Nation's great boast, PABST FAMOUS 'BLUE RIBBON' BEER."

FALL AND WINTER 1912-13

WHEN A MAN BUYS "MORSE-MADE" CLOTHING

¶First of all, he secures VALUE

¶Downright honesty of fabric and workmanship is the bed rock foundation of this great manufacturing and retailing establishment, the product of which is in popular demand in cities and towns from Portland, Maine, to Portland, Oregon.

¶Purchasing fabrics directly from the mills, and in large quantities, and manufacturing in our own splendid workshops each week of the year upwards of three thousand suits, gives one an adequate idea, not only of the immensity of our operations, but of the economical advantages enjoyed by us and shared by us with each purchaser of "Morse-Made" clothing.

¶We have the prestige of sixty years' identification with Boston's commercial progress.

¶We have produced, as manufacturers, clothing which while distinctive and fashionable, has been conservative to that extent that it has never strained for impossible effects.

¶Our stock of Fall and Winter Garments, fresh and crisply new from our own workshops, is now ready, affording an inexhaustible selection of Foreign and Domestic Fabrics of latest pattern and smartest coloring.

McAleer Tells How He Climbed to the Top

Says Boston Is the Greatest Baseball Town

By JAMES R. McALEER.

(President of the Red Sox, winners of the American League pennant.)

CLEVELAND, Sept. 20.—Boston is the best baseball town in the United States. I have had that idea for the past twenty-five years. You can prove that by the way the people have followed the Red Sox this year. When we came home with the pennant in sight, didn't they turn out? Didn't they show what Boston thinks of a successful ball club?

I always had a desire to get into Boston, and I always wanted to be interested in a baseball team. I saved a little money, and last year, when I saw a chance I did everything in my power to get a part ownership in the Boston American team. I finally succeeded, and bought into the team in September, taking charge January 1 last.

And the first year the team won the pennant!

I started to play baseball in 1883, and I have spent just thirty summers in the game, in all positions, first as player, then as manager and once as president. And when I was on the "box office side of the game" I had often to face his own tickets and act as my own secretary.

When I went to school we used to play baseball, during the vacation on a semi-professional team part amateurs and part professionals. I was in high school then. The manager must have thought that I was a pretty good ball player for when the vacation was over he asked me to stick. That's one my baseball experience.

Got on the "Box Office Side."

When my legs finally went back on me I knew no business but baseball so I naturally began to look after the box office end of the game. That is the way I finally became interested in the Red Sox.

I started playing ball in my home at Youngstown. I was an outfielder. I played there in 1883, 1884 and part of 1885. Then I went to Charleston, S. C., after that to Memphis then to Milwaukee, and then to Cleveland.

I retired from the game in 1898, but then managed the Cleveland team in 1899, 1900 and 1901, when I went with Ban Johnson. In 1901 I organized the St. Louis team and remained there eight years. After that I spent two years at Washington and then came to Boston.

Luck Is a Great Factor.

You ask what is the best way to collect a championship baseball team. I would say it is the most important thing. Sometimes you have a good line on men who turn out later to be no good. Besides this, you have to have a good heart. You must escape criticism.

You must make up your mind to stand for that, or you will never be successful in baseball.

It is that inability to stand criticism that puts many a good, brainy man out of business.

Players fail the same way.

Everybody knows the game. Everybody gets excited about it. Go into any town in the United States—however small—and you can get a good sensible baseball argument on any street corner. The other fellow knows as much about it as you do—sometimes more. So, you can make strangers you have to stand for a roast if the man who cannot stand one makes a fat record for life.

So far as I am concerned I am glad of that. It is what makes baseball the great, successful sport it is. Everybody understands it, everybody knows when you're playing good or bad baseball, and nothing escapes the "fan." It's all right out there in plain sight. So that baseball is the greatest and most popular sport there is.

That old feeling is soon in the question we have been asked so many times about the seating arrangements in the new Fenway Park. Some have criticised us because we put the 25-cent stands so far away from the diamond, and others because we did not have enough 75-cent room. It seems to me that the whole problem is one of space.

The question for us to answer was taking care of the greatest number of people. Somebody had to be hurt. You can't satisfy everybody. If there were not enough 75-cent seats then the 75-cent seat patrons would complain. And Boston is a town where the people seem to want 75-cent seats. I am with all of them. I am with the 25-cent fellow just as much as I am with the 75-cent fellow. But the chief complaint always used to be that we did not have enough reserved seats. In the olden times there were only 2,700 reserved seats, and there were not nearly enough for those who wanted them. Now everybody is sure of a seat at nearly any game.

I would like to see the 25-cent and the 50-cent patrons have seats close up to the home plate, but how are you going to do it?

You may believe me, that problem has worried me as much as it has anybody else. But I have decided this one thing: that the first stand to overflow is always the 75-cent stand, and that the people who want seats there will fill that stand before they fill the others, as a general rule. And, after all, it's a question of what people want.

Unfortunately we can't satisfy everybody. Perhaps we have solved the problem the best possible way, perhaps not. At any rate we have tried to do it to serve the greatest number of people in the way the greatest number of people want to be served.

HOW JAMES R. M'ALEER BECAME SOX PRESIDENT

THIS is the completion of an interview with James R McAleer, president of the Boston Red Sox, who yesterday gave Boston AMERICAN readers his opinion of how the Red Sox won the pennant. In this instalment President McAleer—who has been called the "David Harum of Baseball," and who says that the best trade he ever made was when he swapped the job of managing the Washington team last year for the job of president of the Boston team—tells how he spent years in the national game with the idea of some day owning an interest in a team in Boston, "the greatest baseball town in the world," and how he succeeded.

Cmmercial Councils Play Deciding Game

The Everett and Boston councils of the Commercial Travelers' Baseball League meet tomorrow in the closing game on the Everett High school grounds. The winner will be hailed as the champion. Much interest is being displayed in the game as both teams will be represented by strong nines. Elmstrom will pitch for Everett with Goode doing the work on the other end. Barron and Waite will work for Boston.

All-Star Card for Pilgrim A. A. Show

The Pilgrim A. A. has arranged an all-star card for their next show. The card will consist of three ten-round bouts between evenly matched boys and the for should fly throughout the thirty rounds of boxing.

The first bout will bring together Tommy Carey of Philadelphia, who has fought Matty Baldwin twice and who has received a newspaper decision over K. O. Brown and Gilbert Gallant of Chelsea.

The second ten-rounder will show Dave Deshler and Young Nitchie of Philadelphia. Nitchie has fought all the best lightweights around the East, and he is sure to make Deshler extend himself to get the decision.

The windup will bring together Young Donahue of Roxbury and Frank Picato of California. Picato boxed here a couple of weeks ago and he made so great hit with the fans. Donahue has been training for the past six weeks, as he expected to get a match with Britton.

Come Ahead
We'll Stop at Filene's and Get It

They have learned that here may be found all the forgotten things, all the seasonably needed things, all the good unusual things, all the unusually good things.

Men's New Era Clothing

Our selections of rich warm browns, new royal blues and grays of mottled weave will appeal to you. So will the imported cheviots, Irish fleeces, tweeds and vicunas.

We have made these garments in Norfolks suitable for business or pleasure; long soft roll models, slightly English in design; regular sack in two and three-button models. Best of all, each model in complete sizes, $16 to $50.

Men's Overcoats

Men's Shirts

Our buyer said, "It's our opening. Let's show what can be done." Percales, madras, zephyr, silk and flannel, he bought them all. Special French novelties, too, and a few new wrinkles in silks.

Shirts with narrow pleated bosoms of silk and mull bodies. Double turnback or laundered cuffs $3.50.

Dress shirts with pleated linen bosoms and silk bodies. Double turnback cuffs. $8.50 and $7.50.

Men's Hats

When we said Lincoln-Bennett and Habig Hats the other day, we didn't suppose we would find such appreciation. Boston men knew. Our hat business has proved it. This week we had to put in extra selling space to take care of the men wanting our imported velours at $3.50.

Men's Ties

Without a word of direct advertising we have done a business in our scarf shop that establishes us as the knit scarf shop of Boston. Wonderful colors, new designs. Exclusive imported weaves that can't help but please. 55c to $3.

Men's Underwear

Fall is just around the corner. Time to look over our stock. Silk, wool, lisles, cottons; in two-piece and union suits. Every extreme size, large or small. English, French and German as well as American. 50c to $12.

Men's Sweaters

The new Angora sweater coats in large variety of colorings. Made in Austria and America. Also V-neck, turtle necks, Byron and shawl collars. Every grade complete in sizes and shades. $2.50 to $19.50.

Imported Swiss Reefers, knitted silk from Paris and London. $2.50 to $12.

Men's Hosiery

English and French silks and lisles, complete line of American makes. Our own "28 M" guaranteed socks, 3 for $1. All kinds of novelties.

3 for 50c, to $6.

Men's Handkerchiefs

Men's Gloves

Pajamas, night shirts, in novelties and staples; suspenders, garters, belts, in complete assortments.

Men's Shoes. We have started our line at $3.45 because we don't believe a satisfactory shoe for men can be made for less. Others at $5, $7 and $10.

HARVARD SQUAD IS PUT THROUGH HARD PRACTICE

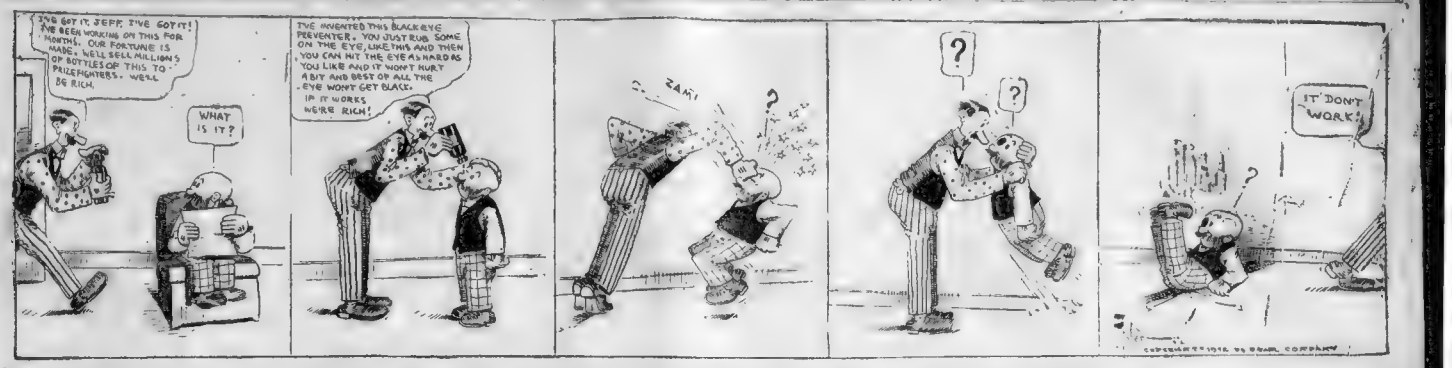
ATHLETIC STARS MEET TODAY FOR CHAMPIONSHIPS

The Inventor Never Really Knows Until He Tries It

By "Bud" Fisher



CRIMSON ELEVEN HARD AT WORK

Everybody at Soldiers' Field, from Coach Haughton to the water boys, is praying for cooler weather, and it looks now as though their prayers would be answered. More hard work with a edition of fourmiles for all the men, is the program for today. This plan, however, cannot be carried out successfully unless the weather turns out to be right and the temperature drops from its pinnacle of yesterday, when most of the varsity candidates appeared on the field in short sleeved shirts.

Today will see "Bob" Fisher, captain of last year's team, who returned yesterday from travel in Europe, out to help make the 1912 eleven the best in the history of the Cambridge college. With make-up examinations practically over, and the consequent addition of upper classmen to the squad, the practice today ought to be more snappy that has been possible during the last few days.

'HIKER' JOY TO COACH AT B. C.

The Boston College football team will report for regular practice next Monday to Coach William (Hiker) Joy, the former Holy Cross star. It was a stroke in the right direction when the faculty made this selection for the position of coach. Mr. Joy is a man who knows football from A to Z.

Coach Joy began his athletic career at the South Boston High School, where he played on the football and basketball teams and starred on both; he was one of the best basketball players among the school teams at that time. He captained the football team at Holy Cross and was a man most feared by the opponents of the Purple's team as he was one of the most aggressive players that ever donned a football uniform.

His team has a schedule of six games thus far. He has some very promising material.

Among those who will report to him are: Hartigan, 13, captain; O'Connor of Cambridge Latin; Fleming, Hurley and Duffy of last year's prep team; Donahue, Fitzgerald, Brandon, Burke and Hennessy of last year's squad; Heffernan, the former Somerville High sod; Woods, the star of St. John's prep, man; Killian of Malden High; Caser of Natick and O'Connor, the powerful line man of last year's team. Frank Rogers, who made a name for himself in all branches of sport while at the prep school, will be out for the backfield.

Fred Lake's Story of 1909 Sox-Giants Series

Ex-Red Sox Manager Describes Third Battle

By FRED LAKE

THE third game of the Red Sox-Giants inter-city series was played in Boston, New England baseball lovers were given a rare opportunity to see the team that had routed the Giants in the second battle at the Polo grounds.

McGraw's men put up a desperate fight but once again they were vanquished. Score: Red Sox 5, New York 4. The game was played on a diamond which had been made slow and slippery by rains. The contest itself was not a brilliant one, but there were plenty of thrills which kept the fans on edge.

The Sox had a lead of 4 to 1 when the Giants came to bat in the ninth inning. Charley Hall, who had pitched airtight ball up to this stage of the game, became as wild as a hawk and before things had quieted down the Giants had tied up the score.

McConnell was the first man up for us in the ninth, and he lugubriously fanned. Harry Lord made a desperate effort to knock the ball out of the lot, but his best effort was a high fly which McCormick gathered in.

With two down in the ninth and none on, it looked very much like extra innings. It was late in October and the sun was low in the Western sky. I feared that the game would be called inside of an inning or two, with the score a tie.

Tris Wins the Game.

It was Speaker's turn at bat. The young Texan slowly walked to the plate, swinging three heavy bats. Tris had done some wonderful batting and fielding in the first two games of the series but had not got a single hit in the third game. "Spoke" was unconcerned and watched Crandall like a hawk as he sent a couple of fast ones sizzling across the rubber.

Tris finally picked one out to his liking. Bang! Crash! Ash and horsehide met and the ball sailed toward right field. McCormick made a great effort to catch the elusive sphere, but he failed and the ball rolled to the right field fence.

The Giants' outfielder started in pursuit while Speaker started to circle the bases with the speed of a young deer. McCormick got the ball as Tris neared third and threw it to Larry Doyle, who had gone to short right field.

Tris increased his speed and literally flew around the bases. Doyle relayed the ball to Crandall who tossed it to Schiel. But it was too late. Speaker had beaten the throw and victory was ours. Each game proved that we were better hitters than the Giants. We gathered ten singles off Ames and Crandall, while the Giants got but seven hits off Charley Hall.

Sox Score in First.

We scored our first run in the opening inning. McConnell was given a free ticket to first base. Lord laid a pretty bunt down the first base line. Merkle fouled the bit but he threw wild to Ames who was covering the bag. McConnell took third on the play and scored a minute later on Speaker's out.

French scored another run in the second. With one out, he singled and stole second as Hooper fanned. Hall then brought him home with a fine base hit.

New York got busy in the third and scored a run on a long base hit. Doyle was the first man up and he singled. Hall was unable to locate the plate for Seymour and he was presented with free transportation to first. The best that McCormick could do was to lift a high fly to Speaker. Both runners advanced on the out. Doyle scored when Murray lifted a high fly to Hooper.

The Red Sox got busy with the war club in the sixth inning and sent two more men across the plate. Hooper started the run making with a single. French hit sharply to Ames. He tossed the ball to Merkle but the latter lost it in the sun and, Niles scored all the way from first when the ball rolled to the bleachers, while French took second on the play. Hooper was out to be outdone by his mates and he singled, scoring French.

Giants Tie Up Score.

Hall took a balloon ascension in the ninth inning and before things had quieted down the Giants had tied up the score. Larry Doyle, the head of the batting list, was the first man up and he was waiting for Hall's second ball. He made a fine effort to do some execution and slammed the ball to deep center field, where Speaker gathered it in.

McCormick refused to aim at any bad ones and was rewarded with a base on balls. Doyle put the Giants in the running when he stole third, much to the chagrin of my boys.

Hall could not get them over for Murray, but he did not pass him. "Red" tried to duck one of Charley's fast ones but in so doing, he hit the dirt with the ball. The latter threw to Stahl who made a fine stop on Red. Merkle then drew a base on balls, filling the bases and Devlin followed suit by forcing out Murray, scoring a run. Bridwell came up next and scored a single which brought Merkle home.

Then came the ninth when Tris Speaker's big bat broke up the game as was described above.

Sox Batter Hitters

The first three games of the series proved conclusively that we were superior to the Giants both as good a fielding team as the Giants and that we had a little on them when it came to hitting.

The New York mound artists were supposed to be in a class by themselves. Before the series opened, critics had claimed that Mathewson and Marquard would prove a puzzle to the Red Sox hitters, while Crandall, Ames and Wiltse would also cover themselves with glory.

The Red Sox of 1909 were a good deal of experience in the big league and they all knew how to play ball and were also true fighters.

After the third game the series stood 2 to 1 in our favor, but well we knew that we would have to face Christy Mathewson on the morrow. The New York players felt confident that Big Six was unbeatable, but some how or other I felt that this mighty brawny was going to meet his Waterloo in the form of the greatest pitcher in the business.

200 Candidates Out for Andover Eleven

ANDOVER, Sept. 20. Andover's 1909 team of interclass games prior to the selection of the school team has brought out 200 football players.

The games are ten teams punishing the tackling dummies and learning signals. The class games begin Saturday.

It is too early to pass judgment on the players, but a first glance at the squads is enough to discover that the three upper classes have material for good teams. The first year boys are promising.

HUGH DUFFY WILL QUIT MILWAUKEE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 20. Mrs. Agnes Havenor, president and owner of the Milwaukee American Association baseball club, has announced that Hugh Duffy, manager of the team, would not be connected with the club next year.

Duffy says he is retiring because a suitable contract was not presented.

DRIVERS FEAR DEATH IN RACE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 20.—Because of the dangerous condition of the race track this morning the officials postponed the start of the Pabst trophy and Wisconsin motor races until late this afternoon.

Thirteen drivers were ready for the word "go" this morning when a heavy rainstorm drenched the course and made the going very dangerous, several of the drivers declaring that racing under any conditions today would mean serious if not fatal injuries.

The races today are the Wisconsin challenge cup with five light cars entered and the Pabst trophy race with eight cars of heavier calibre.

The distance in the Wisconsin race is 174.5 miles, or twenty laps, and in the Pabst race 218.12 miles, or twenty-five laps.

Promoters of the race were confident that the machines would show surprising speed. Drivers were doubtful however of making a fast time over the course the cars particularly being in bad shape.

The grand stand was not very well filled today, the people evidently remaining away for the big race tomorrow, the Vanderbilt and the big race Monday.

The Wisconsin had as starters Bruce-Brush in the Fiat; Spencer Mixer, Mason-Massie, Hearne; I. M. F. and Harry Endorff, Mason.

The Pabst trophy contest had as starters, Case; Rooney, Bergdoll; Wishart, Mercer; Hastings, F. A. I.; Hooper, Mason Special; Pullen, Mason; Trisco, I. A. I. and Hughie Hughes in the Mercer. Harry Endorff in the same as the favorite in the first race and Hughey Hughes in the second event.

Under-Water Photography and Its Marvels

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

IF Jules Verne's captain Nemo, during his journey of twenty thousand leagues under the sea, had thought of it he might have left photographs of the extraordinary scenes that he witnessed [illegible], because "photographs never lie," [illegible] have convinced the readers of his strange history that nothing but the simple truth was being presented to them.

But Dr. Francis Ward had not invented his sub-aquatic photographic apparatus at the time when the veracious Frenchman wrote his romance, and so he could not give visual proof of his statements about what goes on under the water such as Dr. Ward gives us today. Some of Dr. Ward's photographs are reproduced with this article and the reader can judge for himself how interesting his experiments have been. And they are not only curious and interesting but scientifically important as well.

The scheme is simplicity itself as a glance at the accompanying diagram reveals. Dr. Ward happened to live near the bank of a creek into which tidal water flows. The water was deep and pure and the bank steep and rocky. It occurred to Dr. Ward to excavate a chamber in the bank, large enough to hold him and his camera, cover it with a trap door to keep out the light from the sky and then place a large sheet of clear glass hermetically sealed, on the side toward the water. Enough light, he found, penetrated down to the bottom at top speed, while the gal., surrounded with bubbles of air, turnsteed by its plunge, is as clearly shown as if it were flying in the air.

It only remained to get the living creatures in the water within the focus of his lenses. This proved to be easy, for since the creek was connected with the sea aquatic life of many kinds entered it and passed freely before the camera. One great advantage was that these creatures were not prisoners, amid strange surroundings, but had come of themselves into the place. Thus the photographer could be sure that they were not posing for effect, but were acting in accordance with their natural proclivities.

However, he was not altogether satisfied with this. As soon as he found that his plan was a success he induced other animals to enter his photographic trap, and made pictures of them in the same manner.

It was in this way that he secured a photograph of a seagull in the act of pouncing beneath the water in pursuit of a small fish. The fish can be seen darting for the bottom at top speed, while the gal., surrounded with bubbles of air, turnsteed by its plunge, is as clearly shown as if it were flying in the air.

A curious fact developed in these simple experiments is that the camera catches nothing that is above the surface of the water. That surface acts like a screen obscuring of all extraneous light from above. Thus water birds that are returning to the surface after a plunge if the camera catches them just as their heads have emerged, look as if they had been beheaded.

These photographs—and Dr. Ward has made a great many—reveal for the first time the actual movements of aquatic animals and fish when they are in their native element, and from this fact arises the scientific importance of the experiments. Thus far such photographs have been made at a depth of a few feet only; but evidently the depth can be greatly increased, for considerable sunlight penetrates clear water for many yards from the surface. A similar apparatus might be employed to photograph a wreck upon which divers are at work. Doubtless electric light would serve in some cases.

Among the animals experimented with, penguins, which are great fishers, furnished some of the most remarkable photographs during their chase of fish under water. But a surprise was in store for the photographer when he tried to obtain a picture of a plunging cormorant. This bird is of a bronze-black color, and was expected to form a very distinct object. But it turned out that the feathers of the cormorant, through some peculiar property of their surface, become at once so coated with glittering air bubbles that the picture was nothing but a light blur.

It is a short time compared with a life spent in regret if she marries him.

She is an only daughter. There has been nothing she has wanted all through life that her parents haven't provided. One can without effort conjure up a picture of a spoiled babyhood and an indulgent girlhood. She wanted many things that were not good for her, and her parents, if like the great, big weak mass of us, gave them.

The Effect

They gave her sweetmeats she should not have had and sat up nights with her when she paid the penalty. She was never shut up to consider herself first. They didn't hold her entirely to blame if she considered herself first now.

She cried many times a few years ago for a doll till she got it. She is crying now for something denied her, and if her parents are not awake to their folly they will yield just as weakly.

And if they do, I see many years ahead for them devoted to night vigils more protracted and more painful than those of her babyhood.

I hope the girl will summon to her aid every reason, every argument, why she should not marry this man. Marshaled on the side of these forces will be her parents' distress, their disappointment and the endless drain on their resources in the future support of a man whose sweetheart admits he can't "make good."

The One Claim

Opposed to every reason on earth why she should not marry him is the one little puny claim of her love.

I call it "puny" because, knowing and admitting his failures and weaknesses, it is a love without respect. She may love the man, love being uncontrollable and wilful, but she cannot respect him. And a love without respect is a frail sort of thing.

I beg this girl to let the seven months stretch away into seven years. Then, if she still loves him, and he loves her, no one will object to the marriage, though they attend with hearts filled with forebodings.

Repenting at Leisure

"So your first girl threw you over? Do you think she ever regretted it?"

"I'm beginning to think she did. I married immediately, and she never married at all!"

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

I WAS reeding a articlel in the Sunday paiper the other day, sed Ma, to Pa wen he was having our breakfust, wich tould how every father shud mak a chum out of his son & tell him how to succeed in the grate battel of life.

The articlel must have been a good one, sed Pa, because, after all, it is the father that shaips the destiny of his child. The mother cannot know what the father goes thru, Pa sed.

You must have went thru a little today, sed Ma. You had ten dollars wen you left the house last nite, & this morning wen I was looking for a farthing to tip the boy that brought the eggs all I cud find was a groat. A groat ain't much to find out of ten dollars, sed Ma. What did you do with all the other little groats?

I had to pay sum bills, dereat luv, sed [illegible] If I had not had to pay the bills I wud have had more munny than I had after you had went thru my pockets, sed Pa.

You are giving that word HAD a merry game, sed Ma, & it mite have rung true to me if you HAD sed it a few less times. Do you know, husband, sed Ma, you are what I mite call a HAD husband. You HAD so much munny on a certing day & didn't have it to show the next day. You HAD a chanst to rite a comick opera until the producers got a other man. You HAD a bank account onst. You HAD a chanst one time to marry a heiress.

Why doant you stop being a HAD guy and be a HAVE husband? Have a home, have a automobile, have sum horses & stables & have sum seats to the opry, etc. Thats the kind of a person to be if you want to be a regular married man & a noble husband & father. You can do it if you want to orn enuff munny.

Yes, yes, I see, sed Pa, but let's stop talking about munny & talk about that Sunday articlel. Doant you think the articlel was rite wen it sed that a man shud make a chum of his son? Doant you think that I have done that ever since littel Bobbie got oald enuff to trail around with me?

I have tould Bobbie most in the last two years, Pa sed, than my father ever tould me. Of course he went away wen I was four years old, & didant cum back until I was grown up, on account of sumthing wich he had did to the Federal Gurverment, but wen he did cum back he didnt tell me anything much.

You never tould me that youre father was in a Federal prison, sed Ma.

I didnot my that he was, sed Pa. I meet that he was away beekaus he didnt want to be in a Federal prison. He was too proud to stay in a prison, & he didnt have enuff munny to git Brites diseese, Pa sed, like sum peeple I know that got out of doing there littel bit.

But I want you to keep that in yure mind every minnit, the part about making a chum out of your son, Ma sed. Cherish that thought ever

All rite, Bobbie, sed Pa, let's go to the ball gaim

But you was going to talk me out this afternoon, Ma sed

Sure, sed Pa, you are my chum, too. All of us is going

New Dances to Succeed the Turkey Trot

By THE DOLLY SISTERS

THERE is a difference between the dances of last year and those which will be popular the coming season.

Last year to dance well you had only to imitate someone else.

This year, to be a successful dancer in the drawing room as on the stage, you must have imagination and originality.

As far as the stage goes, the turkey trot and similar dances are a thing of the past, and nothing is so completely dead as a thing that is passe in the theatrical world.

The dances which we do could be transported to the drawing room without any difficulty at all. There is nothing suggestive about them, and, except in a few cases, the acrobatic [illegible]tures could be eliminated without detracting from the dance.

My first dance, and I speak as the elder sister, being fifteen minutes older than Rose, is a dance of dirtation and coquetry; almost any good dancer could arrange it by simplifying it a little and make a very pretty drawing room dance of it.

It is danced to waltz time and the two partners, while keeping in perfect rhythm, do not clasp hands until the very end of the dance.

Now, when two amateurs start out to do a dance of this sort, they ought to think up a good little story, be a series of incidents which they could dramatise while dancing.

The story must be cut up in different sections or incidents and each incident must be fitted to a certain number of bars of music. We are using the beautiful Strauss waltzes and other Strauss numbers, which can be had at any music store and are in most of the albums of dance music.

After the introduction, which should be performed by the orchestra or musicians alone, your coquetry dance begins, the man and girl entering from different sides of the stage.

I am going to outline a simplified version of our dance, which could be followed out by two ordinary good dancers.

The main thing to remember is that you must be absolutely certain of your incidents and the action that is to go with them and exactly how long each one is going to take.

THE DOLLY SISTERS AND MARTIN BROWN, OF "THE MERRY COUNTESS" COMPANY, IN TWO OF THE DANCES THAT ARE DESTINED TO BECOME POPULAR IN BALLROOMS THIS WINTER

Waltzing promenade side by side, both looking at each other, the girl coquetting with the man and he flirting with her.

He endeavors to catch her, and she leads him on, always managing to escape before he comes up to her. This could be made very pretty in a drawing room or ballroom by waltzing around different objects at the sides of the room, such as chairs, pedestals, etc. The way it is done depends entirely upon the amount of space and dramatic talent, as well as the grace and ability of the dancers. Gestures and facial expression must suggest a violent flirtation.

The man catches up with the girl, puts his arm around her and tries to kiss her; she bends back and puts her hand before her face.

She escapes again, and the same thing is repeated. This time, after the unsuccessful kiss, they waltz together for eight bars, she, however, does not hold him as in the ordinary waltz, but leans back on his arm with the hands behind her head, or extended at the side.

The end of the dance can be either a fast waltz together, or the girl once more escaping from the man and waltzing quickly away from him.

A very pretty step is one called "skating," which must be done to two-four time instead of the waltz measure; a long glissade or skating step is taken with the right foot, both partners facing in the same direction.

Love's Madness

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"Why does she love him. Curious fool, be still!
Is human love the growth of human will?"
Lord Byron

THIS GIRL, who writes the following letter asks for advice. What she really seeks, I fear, is not advice but approval of a certain course she intends to pursue.

"I have been parted seven months from a man of my age—which is twenty-one—with whom I had kept company a year. We parted because my parents considered him too young and also incapable of providing for me. I have given him a chance to make good, but he failed.

"Now, I still love this man and know that my love is reciprocated. What shall I do, since a reconciliation will be disapproved of by my parents? I am the only daughter."

Is human love the growth of human will? Most decidedly not, and since it is not I ask patience and tenderness for girls like this, whose hearts have been given to men of whom their heads cannot approve.

This girl gave her lover a chance to make good and he failed. And she still loves him.

A Dilemma

Perhaps you may say she thinks she does. That may be, but if she marries him, this self-deception will only make her future harder to bear.

To become reconciled with him will distress her parents, and Jeopardise her happiness for life. It will be waiking open-eyed in trouble, for that her eyes are opened she admits.

She found after seven months' separation that she still loves him. Try seven years. If she waits seven years to learn that she doesn't care for him, it will be time well spent. Seven years taken out of any woman's life and devoted to killing her affection for a worthless man, is seven years well invested.

Drug Habits Specially Treated with Great Success.

Household Hints

Mildew stains can very often be removed quite successfully in the following way: Mix a small quantity of soft soap with the same proportion of powdered starch and salt, and the juice of a lemon. Apply this mixture to both sides of the stain with a small brush, and, if possible, let the article lie in the open all day and night until the stains have quite disappeared. Then wash it in the usual way.

To remove stains from enamel ware, boil a large saucepan or fish kettle full of water, add soda—about two tablespoonfuls to four quarts of water. Immerse the discolored utensils in the boiling water and boil for half an hour; then scour them, using some of the soda water and a stiff brush; if the stains are persistent boil a second time, and use sand with the soda water for the second scouring.

When it is necessary to iron a rough dry garment at once, try this method. Damp it, roll tight, wrap it in a cloth, and then in paper, put it into the oven while the irons are heating. Evaporation will cause it to be thoroughly dampened in a very few minutes; but care must be taken that the oven is not hot enough to scorch the things.

The copper kettle in the best-regulated houses occasionally gets blackened over the fire. To bring it back to its first brightness, wash with soap and soda and water, then make a paste of a knife-powder and paraffin and scour well. Two or three cleanings may be necessary to bring it back to its original brilliance.

A Poser for Nursie

"NURSIE" Little Freddie's voice broke the twilight stillness of the nursery for the twentieth time, and "Nursie" began to get angry.

"Well, what do you want now?" she snapped.

"I only want to ask you"——

"I'll answer no more questions this night!" said Nursie firmly, as she went on folding up her charge's clothes. "Don't you know that curiosity killed a cat, Freddie?"

The small boy lay in silence, stunned by the wonder of this statement. Then he burst out again.

"Nursie, what did the cat want to know?"

Daysey Mayme and Her Folks

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE

THE parlor in the average American home is a place sacred to Mother, Daughter and Daughter's Beau.

When Father ventures in when Daughter has company he comes out chilled to the marrow. When he goes in when there is no one there, his wife follows him to see what he is up to now.

"What are you up to now?" his wife lled from the kitchen.

"Nothing," he replied, giving a wistful ok at a big square book on the table. Then he retreated.

The next day he had better luck. He got in unnoticed and, picking up the book, he turned the pages eagerly.

Away off in the back he stepped. He had found what he was looking for. He turned it to the light. He held it near; he held it far; he looked at it critically, and then proudly.

"It is good," he whispered to himself, and then he turned to get a better light.

"What are you up to now?" his wife called.

The next day he stepped in again. And again, eagerly and furtively, opened the big book and turned to one of the back pages.

This time he stepped to the mirror, and, holding the book at a distance, looked first at the page and then at his reflection in the glass.

"I suppose," he said to himself in the glass, "it couldn't be better."

"What"—began his wife from the kitchen.

"I was looking for my newspaper," he said, putting the book down.

The next day, as furtively as a dog that had buried a bone, he entered the parlor and dug up the book.

Again he opened it and turned to the back, looking critically and somewhat proudly.

"What"—began his wife.

"Oh, let him alone," said Daysey Mayme. "He's in there looking at that photograph of himself he had taken last week."

All the Same

The mistress of the house hurried to open it and there stood a small boy of five, struggling with a desperate little kitten.

"Please, I've brote your titten!"

"Pease, I've brote your titten!" repeated the youngster, in louder tones.

"I really don't know what you mean," said the woman again.

Then the little fellow got exasperated. Drawing in his breath till he got red in the face, he yelled loudly:

Auto Toggery Need Not Be Hideous

The ugliness of the average wear for the auto has become a by-word, but this is altogether unnecessary. There is no good reason why this sort of women's fashions should not be as fetching as any other.

Up-to-the-Minute Jokes

"Oh, you ladies, you ladies!" said the official in charge, as he brought about thirty umbrellas for her inspection; "you are so terribly forgetful."

The lady smiled as she calmly pointed out to him that, with the exception of three, they were all gentlemen's umbrellas.

"I came from Carlow," Jack replied.

Tell Me, Tell It All.

THE day was a grey one, the first of the kind in weeks. As Doris stepped into the room where Oswald sat she felt how much a ray of sunshine would have encouraged her, and yet how truly those leaden skies and this dismal atmosphere expressed the gloom which soon must fall upon this hopeful, smiling man.

He smiled because any man must smile at the entrance of so lovely a woman, but it was an abstracted smile, and Doris, seeing it, felt her courage falter for a moment, though her steps did not, nor her steady, compassionate gaze. Advancing slowly, and not answering because she did not hear some casual remark of his, she took her stand by his side and then slowly, and with her eyes on his face, sank down upon her knees, still without speaking, almost without breathing.

His astonishment was evident, for her air was strange and full of pressure, indeed, she had meant it to be. But he remained as silent as she, only reached out his emaciated hand and, laying it on her head, smiled again but this time far from abstractedly. Then, as he saw her cheeks pale in tenderness of the task before her, he tried to ask gently:

"What is the matter, child? So weary, eh? Nothing worse than that, I hope."

"Are you quite strong this morning? Strong enough to listen to my troubles? Strong enough to bear your own if God sees fit to send them?" came hesitatingly from her lips as she watched the effect of each word in breathless anxiety.

"Troubles? There can be but one trouble for me," was his unexpected reply. "That I do not fear—will not fear in my hour of happy recovery. So long as Edith is well—Doris! Doris! You alarm me. Edith is not ill!—not ill?"

The poor child could not answer save with her sympathetic look and halting, tremulous breath, and these signs he would not, could not read, his own words and mien such an echo in his ears.

"Ill! I cannot imagine Edith ill. I always see her in my thoughts as I saw her on that day of our first meeting; a perfect, animated woman with the joyous look of a glad, harmonious nature. Nothing has ever clouded that vision. If she were ill I would have known it. We are she and I, one flesh—Doris, Doris, you do not speak. You know the depth of my love, the terror of my thoughts. Is Edith ill?"

The eyes gazing wildly into his, slowly left his face and raised themselves aloft, with a sublime look. Would he understand? Yes, he understood, and the cry which rang from his lips stopped for a moment the hum of more than one heart in that little cottage.

"Dead!" he shrieked out, and fell back, flat upon his chair, his lips still murmuring in semi-consciousness, "Dead! dead!"

Doris sprang to her feet, thinking of nothing but his wavering, slipping life till she saw his breath return, his eyes refill with light. Then the horror of what was to come—the answer which must be given to his query she saw trembling on his lips, caused her to sink again upon her knees in an unconscious appeal for strength. If that one sad revelation had been all!

The Story

But the rest must be told; his brother expected it and so did the situation. Further waiting, further hiding of the truth would be insupportable after this. But, oh, the bitterness of it! No wonder that she turned away from those frenzied, wildly-demanding eyes.

"Doris?"

"Doris," he urged again and this time she turned in his direction and gazed, aghast. If the voice were strange, what of the fact which now confronted her. The ravages of sickness had been marked but there were nothing to those made in an instant by a blasting grief. She was startled, although expecting much, and could only press his hands while she waited for the question he was gathering strength to utter. It was simple when it came; just two words:

"How long?"

She answered them as simply.

"Just as long as you have been ill," said she; then, with no attempt to break the inevitable shock, she went on: "Miss Challoner was struck dead and you were taken down with typhoid on the self-same day."

"Struck dead! Why do you say that word, struck? Struck dead! she, a young woman. Oh Doris, an accident! My darling has been killed by an accident!"

"They do not call it accident. They call it what it never was. What it never was," she insisted, pressing him back with feverish hands, as he strove to rise. "Miss Challoner was"—— How nearly the word shot had left her lips. How fiercely above all else, in that harrowing moment had risen the desire to fling the accusation of that word into the ears of him who listened from his secret hiding place. But she refrained out of compassion for the man she loved, and delved instead, "Miss Challoner died from a wound; how given, why given, no one knows. I had rather have died myself than have to tell you this. Oh, Mr. Brotherson, speak, sob, do anything but——"

She started back, dropping his hands as she did so. With quick intuition she saw that he must be left to himself if he were to meet this blow without succumbing. The body must have freedom if the spirit would not go mad. Conscious, or perhaps not conscious, of his release from her restraining hand, silent probing by it, he staggered to his feet, murmuring that word of doom: "Wound! wound! my darling died of a wound! What kind of a wound?" he suddenly thundered out. "I cannot understand what you mean by wound. Make it clear to me. Make it clear to me at once. If I must bear this grief, let me know its whole depth. Leave nothing to my imagination or I cannot answer for myself. Tell it all, Doris."

The Tragedy

And Doris told him:

She was on the mezzanine floor of the hotel where she lives. She was seemingly happy and had been writing a letter—a letter to me which they never forwarded. There was no one else by but some strangers—good people whom one must believe. She was crossing the floor when, suddenly she threw up her hands and fell. A thin, narrow paper cutter was in her grasp and it flew into the lobby. Some say she struck herself with that cutter; for when they picked her up they found a wound in her breast which that cutter might have made.

"Edith! Never."

"Who says that?" he asked.

"It was the coroner's verdict."

"And she died that way—died?"

"Immediately."

"After writing to you?"

"Yes."

"What was in that letter?"

"Nothing of any great moment, they say. Only just cheer and expressions of hope. Just like the others, Mr. Brotherson."

"And they accuse her of taking her own life? Their verdict is a lie. They did not know her." Then, after some moments of wild and confused feeling, he declared, with a desperate effort at self-control: "You said that some believe this. Then there must be others who do not. What do they say?"

"Nothing. They simply feel as you do. They see no reason for the act and no evidence of her having meditated it. Her father and her friends insist, besides, that she was incapable of such a horror. The mystery of it is killing us all; me above others, for I've had to show you a cheerful face, with my brain reeling and my heart like lead in my bosom."

"Do they know of—of my interest in this?"

"Yes; they know about the two O. B's."

"The two"— He was on his feet again, but only for a moment; his weakness was greater than his will power.

"Orlando and Oswald Brotherson," she explained, in answer to his broken appeal. "Your brother wrote letters to her as well as you, and signed them just as you did, with his initials only. These letters were found in her desk, and he was supposed, for a time, to have been the author of all that were so signed. But they found out the difference after a while. Yours were easily recognized after they learned there was another O. B. who loved her."

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

IF YOUR CHILD NEEDS A PHYSIC

Look at the tongue, Mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's insides, the stomach, liver and 30 feet of bowels are clogged up with putrefying waste matter and need a gentle, thorough cleaning at once.

When your child is listless, drooping, pale, doesn't sleep soundly or eat heartily or is cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, or is full of cold, give a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs, and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile will gently move on and out of its little bowels without nausea, griping or weakness, and you surely will have a well, happy and smiling child again shortly.

With Syrup of Figs you are not drugging your children; being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics, it cannot be harmful; besides they dearly love its delicious taste.

Mothers should always keep Syrup of Figs handy. It is the only stomach, liver and bowel regulator and regulator needed. A little given today will save a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna," prepared by the California Fig Syrup Co. This is a delicious tasting, genuine old reliable. Refuse anything else offered.

Doctors Advise Tyree's Powder for Women

Thousands of women are using various forms of antiseptics as preventatives of disease and safeguards to good health. Many such preparations in use are actually worthless, while others are positively dangerous when used under a physician's directions.

Tyree's Antiseptic Powder is absolutely safe to use and is highly recommended by physicians for more than twenty-one years. It is also the most economical germ-destroyer known, as a twenty-five cent package will make two gallons standard antiseptic solution. It dissolves instantly in water and when used as a douche is unequalled. Being absolutely non-poisonous, it should be kept constantly on hand as a preventative of contagion. Sold by druggists everywhere. Ask your doctor about it, or send for our booklet. A. S. Tyree, Chemist, Washington, D. C.

25 CENT "DANDERINE" FOR FALLING HAIR AND DANDRUFF---GROWS HAIR

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application you will say it was the best investment you ever made. Your hair will immediately take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy; and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

SWAMP ROOT Is not recommended for everything; but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. At druggists in fifty cent and dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle of this fine new discovery by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS; LATEST FINANCIAL NEWS

STATE STREET, Sept. 20.—Midday—Prices ruled higher in the Boston market this morning and almost all the copper advanced. Outside of that list, Pond Creek was strong. United Fruit also sold higher. As regards copper issues the sentiment in trading circles appeared to be more confident.

Thompson, Towle & Co. quote an interesting statement from a prominent copper man today. He said: "Many officials of the big copper producing mining companies tell me that there has been a large reduction in number of stockholders, due largely to the fact that insiders have been buyers and outsiders sellers. In other words, the people who know have been buying and those who guess have been selling. The reverse generally applies when prices are high."

President John D. Ryan of the Amalgamated Copper Company said in Butte: "Only the best of prospects prevail in the copper industry and I find the same conditions in about every other one. In most instances the demand for products is greater than the supply."

Good Tone in New York.

There was a good tone to the New York market when it opened and nearly all active issues made gains in early transactions. Canadian Pacific advanced more than a point and Steel common ⅝. Amalgamated ½, Erie common ⅜, Erie preferred ⅝, Pennsylvania ¾, Atchison ¼, Reading ⅝, Lehigh Valley ⅜, Missouri Pacific ⅝, and Southern Pacific ⅜. American Can common, in which there was great activity yesterday, gained ¼, but later receded.

The Curb was steady. United Cigar Stores rose 1⅛ to 105⅝, the highest level ever attained by that security.

Copper Price and Mining.

Spot and futures were each 2s. 6d. lower when the London copper market opened.

It is said by producers that demand for the metal is increasing and that inquiry in this market from Europe has been heavy. Most recent sales have been at 17⅝ cents a pound with cash transactions for Lake for export slightly higher. It seems to be general expectation in the trade that if present conditions continue there will be an advance in the price of the metal soon.

Labor troubles at Bingham and the Mexican disturbances are important factors as regards that. Production in this country is temporarily being actually reduced and copper shipments from Mexico may be seriously interfered with.

Financial News in Brief.

The operating revenue of the Pere Marquette road increased $58,000 in August, and the deficit decreased $40,581.

Bankers are now awaiting with acute interest as to what action Secretary MacVeagh will take in regard to making deposits in national banks from the surplus funds now in the United States Treasury. Most bankers think that deposits from that source will be made before crop moving is over.

Wall Street has heard that Daniel G. Reid, chairman of American Can directors, expects a bull market in his favorite issues, and this is held accountable for their advance while he is still on the other side of the ocean. It is said that American Can management intends to begin next year to pay off the 6% debt and to cumulated back dividends on preferred stock.

The Melbourne council has asked the Australian government to enact laws to prevent the Chicago Beef Trust from getting a foothold in Australia.

Railroads have been called upon by the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries to furnish it with all facts as to their water shipping interests, whether direct or indirect. The committee, as the result of the enactment of the Panama Canal bill, is after all the information it can get regarding relations of railroads in this country with steamship lines engaged in coastwise trade. It also wants to learn what interests or dealings the roads possess in any forwarding, towing, wharf, warehouse, lighterage or canal companies.

The Lowell Machine Shop has declared a regular quarterly dividend of 3½ per cent. upon preferred stock. It is payable on October 10 to stockholders of September 20 record.

Hunt, Ellis & Co. state: "An interest of the Utah Copper Company says that the object of the management is to build up a large surplus. In regard to reports that Nevada and Utah Copper shareholders will receive an increase in their quarterly dividends at the November meeting, he said that was a question for the board to decide. The matter has not been considered, and it would not be surprising if dividend increases were delayed indefinitely for the next year. Reports have it that Utah Copper will pay an extra dividend of $1 a share, making $4 this year, and that the Nevada Consolidated will pay an extra dividend of 50 cents a share, making $2 for the year. This would still enable the Utah Copper Company to show a several million dollars to its surplus, as on a basis of last month's production and 17½-cent copper, it earned at the rate of $11 a share a year on the stock."

The Boston News Bureau says that if the tentative plan for reorganizing the United States Motor Company now under consideration becomes effective, it will result in an assessment of $225 on a share basis on both the common and preferred stock, of which there is outstanding $12,193,350 common and $11,401,183 preferred.

One-Thousandth of an Inch Between Success and Failure

Turning the Screw the One-Thousandth of an Inch Made Hundreds of Millions of Profits and Freed Man's Speech from the Limitations of Space

Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal-Examiner.

Everybody knows what the telephone has done, is doing and will do.

The magic skin was supposed to carry a man instantly from one place to another, no matter how far.

The magic telephone actually does carry the voice instantly a thousand miles or more. and, inasmuch as the voice carries the thought and as the thought is THE MAN, the telephone actually carries a man a thousand miles in an instant.

The man of today, sitting at his desk in Boston, can work and HE CAN BE WITH HIS BRAIN IN NEW YORK, IN CHICAGO, IN BALTIMORE, PHILADELPHIA, A HUNDRED CITIES, IN THE COURSE OF A SINGLE MORNING.

The telephone, as George W. Perkins pointed out very interestingly in his article on this page recently, frees men's minds, allows the thinking spirit to leave the body and travel thousands of miles in endless directions.

Nothing has done so much to free men from limitation of time and space as the telephone.

AND THE HUNDREDS OF MILLIONS THAT THE TELEPHONE HAS EARNED AND THE FOURTEEN THOUSAND MILLION TELEPHONE MESSAGES SENT IN THIS COUNTRY LAST YEAR are all due to the fact that Bell, the inventor, turned a little screw one-thousandth part of an inch in a certain direction.

It was the turning of the screw that made Bell the great and deservedly popular man that he is.

But long before the days of Bell, Reis, the German schoolmaster, was actually using a telephone of his own invention.

That old telephone, although it would seem queer to you, and looks like no telephone at all, actually was to all intents and purposes the telephone of this day, with its transmitter and receiver.

Reis could whistle, sing and transmit other interesting noises through his telephone. But it was impossible to SPEAK through it. The voice could not be sent from the transmitter to the receiver at the other end.

Reis' idea was that the telephone must be arranged in such a way that the electrodes did not quite touch. He wanted them as near as possible; but he did not quite let them touch each other. He was sure that that was right, and therefore the little screw connecting the two electrodes kept them about one thousandth of an inch apart.

Bell's idea, which gave him millions, which has enriched the human race by thousands of millions in saving time and labor, was that the electrodes MUST touch, but very faintly.

He turned that screw one-thousandth of an inch and there was at once the telephone of today.

That turning of a screw one-thousandth of an inch, that faint distinction between success and failure, between inarticulate whistling and shouting and useful, distinct, clearly heard speech, that turning of one-thousandth part of an inch this way or that, is something that happens in the lives of nearly all of us.

There are thousands of human beings in this world, millions of them, with important messages for other human beings, with emotions, moral sense and character that need expression. But something is the matter with the screw that puts the mind in touch with the outside world. And the message is never carried distinctly, it never REACHES.

The German schoolmaster who worked and struggled in vain to make his telephone anything more than a toy little thought that a baby three years of age might accidently have touched that screw and made of his toy the most useful scientific instrument in the whole of the world's history.

In all of us there is something that might at any time be done, some effort of the will, some application of concentrated thought, some new idea, some effort, some reaching out, born of hope that will not be destroyed; some little turning of some screw in the brain one-thousandth part or one-millionth part of an inch, that might make of the man unheard, misunderstood, lacking the comprehension of his fellows, a creature as far above the man that he was as the telephone of Bell is above the useless telephone of the poor, disappointed German schoolmaster.

San Francisco to Astonish the World

That it will be in all respects the greatest, completest and most beautiful international fair the world has ever seen there is not a shadow of doubt.

The commissioners of the exposition have returned from Europe inspired with the royal reception accorded them and the lavish outlays in space and decoration promised from the Eastern world. Every nation of Europe will be represented save one. The Oriental nations will utilise the Pacific fair with greater scope and splendor than they have ever expended upon an American exposition because of its greater nearness to their shores and the greater inducements which they can offer for magnifying the glory of China and Japan.

His Imperial Japanese Majesty's commissioners were recently in Washington. Mr. M. Yamawaki, commissioner-general; Mr. G. Tokeda, commissioner, and Mr. Y. Katayama, commissioner, were as enthusiastic over the exposition as if it were in Tokio. They informed our government at Washington that Japan proposes to erect at San Francisco at a cost of $1,000,000 a building with Japanese gardens. At the close of the exposition Japan will present the superb structure to the American government as an expression of her admiration and friendly regard.

Denmark and Sweden and Norway will join with the graces and splendors of London, Paris and Berlin and the nations of Central Europe to make memorable and wonderful this first exposition ever held upon the shores of an ocean.

Taken all in all—for beauty, for splendor, for educative value, for industrial enlightenment, for historical pageant, for charm and enjoyment—all the evidences point to the fact that the world, weary with the splendor of expositions, has yet to see and to enjoy its crowning spectacle in the beautiful City of the Golden Gate.

LETTERS FROM AMERICAN READERS

ABROGATE THE TREATY

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—The intimation recently made that England would appeal to The Hague with reference to the Hay-Pauncefote treaty simply requires that President Taft should take steps to abrogate the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. The present administration has, for cause, no leg grave, abrogated the treaty existing between the United States and Russia.

The Hay-Pauncefote treaty should never have been ratified by the United States senate. It was subjected to severe public disapproval at the time. The late Secretary Hay had the strong aristocratic leanings of the old Federalist regime. We cannot permit strong financial leanings to interfere with our political welfare. The great railroads and their international financial conferes must be firmly rebuked. President Taft can do no more popular act and patriotic duty than to promptly institute proceedings for the nullification and abandonment of this treaty.

The attitude of the President toward the Panama Canal matter has been wise and patriotic throughout, and must command the approval of all parties. The prompt termination of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty is the only logical solution of the dispute. The country will support the President in a firm stand; it is not a question for partisan bickering. The President's position is entirely harmonious with political ethics.

To recede from our present action in the Panama Canal affair would be to invite future encroachments upon our private affairs. There can be no hostile motives imputed to our Panama Canal legislation; it is entirely of a local and pacific character.

The allegations made with reference to the Panama Canal act violating the Hay-Pauncefote treaty are not reasonable, of course. We must, therefore, refuse to arbitrate in an international court what is manifestly a private affair of our own—an act of domestic legislation which must be defended by ourselves against any foreign interference or aggression.

ANCIENT FATAL FASHION

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—I have read in your paper of the suicide of General Nogi and his devoted wife. Does it not tend to show a fatal foolishness? It is following not civilization, but the downward road of ancient custom.

It is truly a sad event in Japanese annals. Reviewing the work, philosophical, literary and patriotic, of the great General, it seems that this man was afflicted with a religious disease. The father of a country to do such a thing! Incredible indeed.

I appeal to you to write an editorial about this. Show the world what it is to ignore civilization and to follow ancient fatal fashion.

BOOM, BOOST AND BUY BOSTON PRODUCTS

Editor Boston AMERICAN.

Dear Sir—With keen interest I read your editorial page every evening, either at home in moments of peaceful meditation, with my after-supper pipe, or on a train or in a hotel when away.

In your theme "AND THEN THERE'S ANOTHER PENNANT WE WANT FOR BOSTON," where you suggest that "we should strive for industrial supremacy just as we do for baseball supremacy," you truthfully say "an auspicious time it seems to the AMERICAN for the business men of Boston, aided by their good and loyal friends throughout New England, to go after the pennant in the great world league of business."

The sentiment is good; the suggestion is good; but instead of talking about local pride, local industrial advancement, etc., LET US ACT.

A great engine capable of much speed and work is soon outstripped by the lesser one with full steam ahead all the time.

We are all selfish and narrow to some degree; each one of us sees the world from his own narrow perpective. This is the case with me—being somewhat familiar with the rubber business, although it is but one of many industries for which Boston is famous, yet it appears most prominent in my eyes, as I am connected with it.

I would like to read articles from others in other lines similar to this, in your paper.

Now, as for rubber, you say "Boston stands first in the manufacture of rubber and elastic goods." In the past, it has stood first: at present, it does. Will it continue in "first place?" If Boston does not continue in the lead, whom shall we blame?

There are concerns in Boston manufacturing mechanical rubber goods, fire hose, etc., each one an acknowledged leader in its special line. Why then do many concerns and municipalities purchase their goods from distant manufacturers, when these home-made goods have not only made their manufacturers famous, but have added prestige to Boston?

The rubber manufacturers in Boston are INDEPENDENT concerns, fighting the "Rubber Trust" tooth and nail—and successfully, too. They support many wage earners who are living in, and are a part of, our vast community. Their great purchasing power helps many Boston enterprises, and yet these very wage earners, including laborers, clerks, salesmen, etc., exchange their dollars in hardware, furniture, paper, and other stores and various other places that use large quantities of rubber, and these very merchants receiving their patronage in many instances send their dollars to distant cities and States for rubber goods—and this, in spite of the fact that the local manufacturers have added prestige to Boston, because of the superiority of their goods, which have not been surpassed in any other part of the country or world.

This failure on the part of the merchants to patronize the Boston manufacturers of rubber goods not only works a great disadvantage to the merchants, since superiority of production and nearness of market insures the lowest price, but also hurts those engaged in the rubber industry, since their dollars are diverted into distant markets and their earning capacity eventually reduced.

So I say to hardware jobbers, mill supply and other various consumers of mechanical rubber goods, also to town and city officials, PATRONIZE YOUR HOME INDUSTRIES.

Boston is the pioneer city of rubber; where you can get at least as good, and, according to all expert opinion, better value than elsewhere.

KEEP BOSTON THE PENNANT RUBBER CITY.

Boston has been the Pennant Rubber City; Boston is the Pennant Rubber City; Boston will continue to be the Pennant Rubber City if you patronize Boston manufacturers.

In closing, let me suggest, as a slogan, not only in regard to rubber goods, but to all our products, the following:

Trouble

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

I SAW a little urchin chase a dog across the street;
The dog was plainly frightened by the pattering, baby feet.
"What of it?" said the youngster, "can't you see he's scared of ME?"

But barks are only noises—'tis the sharp fangs that destroy.
Keep Trouble ever yelping and his rout will be complete,
As surely as the urchin chased the dog across the street.
